Fourteen Bodies Entombed Miners Are Recovered

Officials Fear All of 30 Miners Entombed in Explosion at Jamison Coal Mine at Farmington, Will Be Found Dead.

Farmington, W. Va., Jan. 15.—Fourteen bodies had been recovered at one o'clock this afternoon from mine No. 8 of the Jamison Coal and Coke Company, where an explosion shortly before midnight entombed 30 miners, probably all of whom, company officials fear, will be found dead.

Identification was made difficult by the condition of the miners' bodies which were charred and in many instances mangled by falling concrete supports and mine machinery. However, seven of the fourteen were identified.

They are: Art and Leo Cutlip, Herbert Myers, W. P. Varr, W. E. Meyers, F. D. Lester, Neal Mahoney.

But for the fact that the explosion was not of great violence, Jamison said, several hundred miners would have been victims.

While rescuers are handicapped by the hundreds of tons of debris separating them from the trapped miners and can remain on the floor of the 300 foot level for only a short time, due to the deadly gases, they were thankful that the shaft and elevator were not affected by the explosion.

Modern-Equipped Shaft.

Both company officials and a party of 15 miners who escaped from the mine following the explosion were unable to account for the origin of the blast. The mine was one of the most modern equipped shafts in southern West Virginia, it was said, and every precaution was taken to safeguard the lives of the miners.

Jamison, who with other company officials rushed to the scene, admitted that the prospects of rescuing any of the men alive were negligible.

It looks bad for the entombed miners, he said. "It is very doubtful that any of them will escape alive, although hope will not be abandoned nor rescue efforts lessened until we know positively that all life has been extinguished."

Gas Penetrates Headways.

The explosion occurred about 20 feet below the surface and about two and a half miles from the shaft, Jamison said. The actual blast occurred in headway No. 3, but the deadly gases resulting from the explosion penetrated adjacent headways.

Rescue work is going forward at present under the direction of W. J. Wigglesman. Crack mine rescue crews who have demonstrated their prowess in other memorable northern West Virginia coal mine disasters arrived at the scene shortly after word was spread throughout the countryside.

WANTS VERDICT OF THREE-FOURTHS OF A JURY

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 15.—A resolution proposing an amendment to the state constitution so that three-fourths of a jury could render a verdict in criminal and civil cases, was introduced today in the legislature by Assemblyman Hofstadter, Republican of New York.

Corning Elected Democratic Head

Edwin Corning of Albany is Elected Chairman of Democratic State Committee—Smith Says He Intends to Retire From State Politics.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 15.—Governor Al Smith formally and emphatically told the Democratic leaders of the state, who met here today and elected Edwin Corning of Albany, as state chairman, that he intended to retire from state politics at the end of the present year.

Addressing the Democratic leaders, the governor said:

"I promise to do all I can for the Democratic party after January 1, 1927, when I will be back in New York city, as it must be."

The Democrats adopted a resolution offered by Judge Oliver, leader of Tammany Hall, giving women equal representation on the state committee which will be composed of 150 men and 150 women, two members to be elected from each assembly district.

Won Albany County.

State Chairman Corning was elected to succeed Herbert C. Pell, Jr., of Tuxedo, resigned. Corning is chairman of the Albany county Democratic executive committee, is a man of wealth and was largely responsible for winning Albany county for the Democrats after it had been a rock-ribbed Republican county for nearly a quarter of a century.

"Smith Next President."

Corning was nominated for the post of chairman by William H. Kelley, prominent Democrat of Syracuse. His nomination was seconded by John G. Saxe of New York and John J. Griffin of Buffalo.

In introducing Governor Smith, Chairman Corning said:

"I present to you the governor of the Empire State and I hope the next president."

This was greeted with prolonged applause.

When the governor arose to speak, he said, with a wide smile:

"Gentlemen, I accept the nomination."

It brought a hearty laugh from the Democratic leader.

The governor launched into a bitter and vigorous attack on the Republican party in New York state, after declaring the Democratic party was better off than it had been in a quarter of a century.

Praises Democratic Party.

"The Republican party is worse off than it has been in 25 years," the governor declared. "It has no leadership in the state and no one is willing to stand responsible for it. It has no program and it has steadily become a party of obstruction."

Five Big Acts for Shriners' Ball

Broadway Topliners Secured for Entertainment at Shrine Next Wednesday Night—Two Orchestras to Supply Dance Music—Features to Please Everybody.

The committee in charge of entertainment for the Shriners' dance on Wednesday evening, January 20, at the armory, for the benefit of the Industrial Home, met with decided success on its trip to New York city to engage entertainment acts for the dance.

A big all star variety bill of five acts have been secured and every one of the acts have a reputation for being big time numbers.

Santry and Norton, late stars in George M. Cohan's "Rose O'Kelly," top the list. These dancing stars from the dancing sensation of New York, London and Paris are considered of America's best and never before has anything like this act been seen in Kingston.

The Donald Sisters, America's foremost lady athletes, will appear in a remarkable exhibition of strength and dexterity. These two beautiful girls recently completed an engagement at the New York Hippodrome where their act was a feature.

Corinne Marsh, another George M. Cohan headliner in "Little Nellie Kelly," presents a delightful dance divertissement. Miss Marsh is a revelation in technique, pep and personality and is one of the best acrobatic dancers to be secured.

Rubini and Rosa in a well known North novelty musical offering is the fourth act on the bill. This act is one of tunes and trimmings.

Virginia Pearson, the dashing Broadway dancing favorite, will present her sensational oriental conception. This act is well above par and completes a bill which is worth much more than the price of admission to the dance.

For those who do not dance a variety bill has been secured which will more than satisfy those who attend for the entertainment feature and to look on at the dance which will follow the entertainment.

In addition to the acts of entertainment there will be the opportunity of dancing to the orchestras of Paul Zucca and Jimmie Connors. Both orchestras will be augmented for the evening and the best of music is assured.

The armory drill shed will be decorated in a novel way. Gerard W. Betz who has charge of the decorations has not made public the scheme which will be carried out and the plans of the committee are known only to the members.

Parker's Claim To Teapot Dome

New York, Jan. 15.—One-seventh of Harry F. Sinclair's Teapot Dome oil holdings, estimated at $16,500,000, is claimed by H. Leslie Parker, wealthy oil magnate of Casper, Wyoming, in a suit on file in federal court here today.

The complaint alleges that when Sinclair quietly bought up titles to the oil land inside Teapot Dome as a forerunner to the transaction whereby he later obtained the operating leases, Parker and his partner, Marius N. Wheeler, of Casper, were left out in the cold.

Parker's alleged claim to Teapot Dome dates back to 1920 and 1921 when he and his partner bought out one-seventh of the original claims.

Parker's suit, if it succeeds in establishing his claim that Sinclair had not acquired full title to the Teapot Dome holdings, it was said might result in invalidating the lease, it being specifically stated in the statute governing such leases, that full title was necessary before the transfer.

The legality of the Sinclair lease was upheld by the federal court in Wyoming last June but the government announced that an appeal would be made.

Geniuses Will Discuss Waves

Radio Engineers Interested in Subject of Polarization of Radio Waves—Knotty Wave Length Problem Will Be Discussed.

New York, Jan. 15.—With an increasing number of daily arrivals of the most prominent radio engineers from all parts of the United States and abroad, special preparations are being made here for the accommodation of the geniuses and their associates who within the last decade have perfected what promises to be the outstanding achievement of the twentieth century—radio broadcasting.

The Institute of Radio Engineers, under whose auspices the first international meeting of radio engineers is being held, on January 18 and 19, has prepared a program of scientific papers by the foremost authorities of the art, which will strike at the heart of the many controversies now upsetting the radio world, particularly those engendered by the recent discoveries in short wave transmission.

Considerable interest centers upon the paper to be delivered by Dr. Greenleaf W. Pickard on the subject of "polarization of radio waves," because of the light which it will shed upon the travel of radio waves and the manner in which they make their way between transmitter and receiver. The peculiar twists and directional effects, hitherto unaccounted for in many respects, explain much about the mysterious fading so common in long distance reception.

Another event of great importance, and another evidence of the interest now attaching to the recently explored realm of ultra short wave transmission, is the awarding of the Lieberman memorial prize to Frank Conrad, as recognition of his contributions to the art of short wave signaling.

John V. L. Hogan, a pioneer in radio research work, associated with Reginald Fessenden in the first long distance radio telephone communication carried on in this country, is presenting a paper which will interpret the practical results of the recent Hoover conference. He will discuss particularly the knotty wave length problem which affects the well being of every broadcast listener in the country.

Radio Company At Poughkeepsie

Former Fiat Auto Plant in Poughkeepsie to Manufacture Radio Equipment—Title Passes on February 1—$300,000 Reported Paid for Plant.

The sale of the Electric Auto-Lite Company plant in the North Road, Poughkeepsie, originally the Fiat factory, to R. E. Thompson radio receiver manufacturer of Jersey City, was reported Wednesday. The new owners will take title February 1. The consideration is said to have been $300,000. The contract was signed in New York by C. O. Miner, of Toledo, O., its present owner, and Mr. Thompson. Alfred Jenkins, former secretary of the Poughkeepsie Chamber of Commerce who is president of the real estate firm of Alfred Jenkins, Inc., was the broker.

The new owner plans to take possession before March 1 and will move his present plant to Poughkeepsie. It is expected that between 200 and 500 employees will be taken on and if business prospers, several hundred more than that will be employed.

Mr. Thompson is president of the R. E. Thompson Company which is located at Poughkeepsie and concentrated entirely in its home plant in Turin, Italy. Then the Dusenberry Motor Company at New York took it over, used it a short time, and sold it to the Electric Auto-Lite Company, which occupied it for some time. During the war, metal shell cases were made there for the U. S. government. After the Auto-Lite company gave it up, the DeLor Corporation, manufacturers of automobile lighting and starting systems, used it until last fall.

The first floor of the factory building has 102,195 square feet of floor space. The second floor has 24,759 square feet. The property includes 23 acres and a spur connects with the Central New England Railroad.

Robbed Register, Each Fined $100

David Lennon, William Babcock and Elizabeth Babcock, who were charged with having robbed a cash register near Lake Erie some time ago, entered pleas of guilty in county court Thursday afternoon and were fined $100 each. They paid the fine and were given a suspended jail sentence and instructed to report to the probation officer of Orange county at Newburgh.

Rescue Car Sent to Mine.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 15.—The mine rescue car of the United States Bureau of Mines left here at 4 a. m. today for Farmington, W. Va., where 30 miners are reported entombed.

Idle Miners Give Lewis Big Hand

When He Tells Them Not One Man Will Go Back to Work—Committee Takes Measures to Meet Any Privation.

Hazleton, Pa., Jan. 15.—The hard coal miners on strike since September 1, settled down today for continuance of the battle for their new wage scale, following the meeting here of the General Scale Committee of the three anthracite districts. This general body adopted unanimously the report of the sub-committee which had negotiated with the operators in New York for two weeks, the conference breaking up Tuesday without reaching an agreement.

The general committee voted concidence and thanks to the sub-committee, reaffirmed the policy of the strike as called originally and made no change in arrangements.

This means that the 10,000 maintenance men at work since the strike started to keep the mines from flooding, will not be withdrawn, despite demands of some miners that this be done.

The strike call specifies and obligates with operators not to displace union maintenance with non-union workers and also not to try to operate the mines or produce coal. It was stated that the committee has authoritative information from the coal operators that any effort to mine coal is not contemplated.

Before the start of the meeting President John L. Lewis addressed 500 miners. He told them their interest in the tense situation was appreciated, that the leaders were well aware of how they felt on the issue, involved and that they would never waver in their fight against arbitration, which he declared was an operators' move to cut wages and bring living conditions back to the standards of 1922.

"Let them blow their whistles," he said. He predicted not one man would go back to work "unless an agreement made in honor is negotiated." He was given a big ovation by the idle miners.

The committee took measures to meet any privation which may develop in the hard coal fields. President Lewis pledged the international treasury as well as the money raising power of the organization to the support of the miners and assured the committee there will be no need that will not be supplied.

C. of C. Directors Elect Officers

The board of directors of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce met Thursday evening to organize for the coming year. In addition to the directors elected, whose names have already been published, W. C. Kingston has been appointed to serve for one year in place of Edward Derrinbacher, whose resignation was accepted with regret at a recent meeting.

The officers elected for the year are as follows: Max L. Reben, president; Arthur H. Wicks, first vice president; W. C. Kingston, second vice president; W. H. Van Valkenburgh, treasurer; Louis S. Coe, secretary.

Other directors: Arthur A. Davis, Walter J. Crane, E. Frank Flanagan, Samuel J. Messinger and Charles A. Lasher, complete a board of directors believed to be representative of the best interests of the city.

The retiring directors, Frank W. Thompson, Edward Derrinbacher and E. Everett Fessenden, will be missed, for their counsel was at all times valuable. A vote of thanks was extended to them for the faithful service rendered during their term of office.

The annual membership meeting will be held at an early date.

God Told Him to Make Grape Juice

Jameson, N. Y., Jan. 15.—Dr. Charles Welch, "grape juice king" of Westfield, who died a few days ago at St. Petersburg, Fla., leaving an estate of $750,000, became engaged in the manufacture of grape juice because of a passion to serve God. It is explained in his will "I fermented grape juice," he relates in his will, "was born in 1863 out of a passion to serve God by helping the church to give its communion the fruit of the vine instead of the cup of the devil. Very early did I hear from my Heavenly Father, and from my earthly father, 'take the child and train it for me,' and this communion I have tried faithfully to perform."

Instead of making any direct bequest for benevolent purposes Dr. Welch directs that such work be performed by his two sons who are referred to as "wards of this Lord's work and money."

Amateur Contest and Dance.

A big amateur contest and dance will be given by the Poughkeepsie Social Club at Poughkeepsie Hall, corner Broadway and Thomas street Friday evening, January 22. Music by Zucca's orchestra. Anyone wishing to enter the contest may notify Charles Fox, 15 Spring street, or about 523-32.

Bus Line Starts Running Here Sunday Morning

Service to Start With Three Busses Running at 15 Minute Intervals—Two Busses Uptown and One Downtown—Service Will Gradually Be Improved.

Kingston will have its first bus service on Sunday morning when the bus line will begin operations with three busses, two uptown and one downtown. Service will be improved gradually as other busses are received. It is proposed to start from the Strand and Broadway at 7 o'clock Sunday morning and busses will run at intervals of 15 minutes.

The downtown bus will start from the Strand and Broadway and a bus will leave there every fifteen minutes.

Uptown the bus will leave at North Front street. Another bus will circle around through Washington avenue and over Henry street and Clinton avenue transferring its passengers at Henry street and Clinton avenue to the through bus.

How Busses Will Run.

There will be for the present two through busses in operation. These busses will run from Hasbrouck ave. and Strand up Hasbrouck avenue to Pine street to Broadway to Cedar street to Clinton avenue to Henry street to Wall street to Maris street down North front street to Washington avenue to Maris street to Wall street to Henry street and back again, making a loop. This bus will transfer its passengers to the through bus.

There will also be a third bus in operation which will run through Clinton avenue to North Front street to Washington avenue to Maris street to Wall street, to Henry street and back again, making a loop. This bus will transfer its passengers to the through bus.

All three busses if run on schedule time will meet at Henry street and Clinton avenue every fifteen minutes.

The first bus will leave the Strand Sunday morning at 7 o'clock.

Commission Grants Order.

On Thursday afternoon after The Freeman had talked over the telephone to Secretary Roberts of the public service commission in New York city, that body issued an order and it was signed and should be received by Howard C. Winne some time today in the mail.

It is expected that as soon as the certificate is received here from the public service commission, the common council will be asked to meet in special session some time next week to act on the application to transfer the Winne franchise to the trolley road.

LANGLEY WILL BE SURRENDERED TODAY

Covington, Ky., Jan. 15.—A mandate from the United States court of appeals in Cincinnati was received here today at the offices of the United States court, directing the execution of the verdict against John W. Langley, ex-congressman from the Kentucky district.

Langley is to serve two years in the Atlanta penitentiary on a conspiracy conviction in connection with the illegal removal of 1,400 cases of whiskey from the Delle of Anderson distillery near Lawrenceburg, Ky., in 1921.

Langley's various appeals have been denied and lately the supreme court refused to interfere.

Langley is to be surrendered here today to the United States marshal who will take him to the penitentiary.

DANCE OF RAPID ROSE SATURDAY NIGHT

On Saturday evening, January 16, there will be a dance held at the engine house of Rapid Hose Company, No. 1, on Home street, under the auspices of the entertainment committee of the company. As this is the opening dance of the company this season it is expected that all the old patrons of the company will come out and enjoy a pleasant evening. Dancing will begin at eight o'clock. Music will be furnished by the company's orchestra.

HIT BY AUTOMOBILE SKULL IS FRACTURED

White Plains, N. Y., Jan. 15.—Russell Parker, 20, who recently came here from Johnston, N. Y., was seriously injured today when struck by an automobile as he was about to board a street car. The driver of the automobile did not stop. Parker's skull was fractured and he has other injuries. His mother, Mrs. Frederic Parker, lives at 110 Pearl street, Johnston.

WASTE SAVES MILLIONS

Simplification and Standardization Accomplishes Much.

Washington—Hundreds of millions of dollars have been saved for American manufacturers and distributors as a result of 52 simplification and standardization programs inaugurated by the Department of Commerce. The actual saving cannot even be approximated, and Secretary Hoover, in his annual report, says that the country as a whole has accomplished in increased national efficiency in these directions is impossible to measure, although it represents one of the most astounding transformations in economic history.

While the government has been aiding actively in the campaign in many specific directions the whole program has been one fundamentally to stimulate action among industries, trades and consumers themselves. "It is obviously not the function of government to manage business," says Mr. Hoover, "but to investigate economic questions, to survey economic phenomena and point out the remedy for economic failure or the road to progress, to inspire and assist co-operative action and to stimulate forces to these ends—surely all these are well within the proper field of public service."

229 Committees at Work. Since this work was undertaken some 900 group conferences have been held under government auspices, practically all at the request of the industries themselves, and 229 committees are now at work on various phases of the program.

Discussing the fundamental purposes of the campaign for waste elimination, Secretary Hoover says the philosophy underlying it has but one purpose—that is, to maintain American standards of living for both workers and farmers and to place production on a more stable footing. The high standards of living enjoyed by the American people are the result of steadily mounting per capita productivity, he says. There is only one way further to advance these standards, and that is by improved methods and processes, by the elimination of waste in materials and motions in our production and distribution system.

"Just as 20 years ago we understood nation-wide conservation of our natural resources," continues Secretary Hoover, "so we must today even more vigorously sustain this campaign of better nation-wide utilization of our industrial resources and effort. More especially is this the case in view of the many complex forces which have arisen from the war, and particularly the difficulty of maintaining our situation as against the competition of a world of lower standards overseas."

What Has Been Attempted.

The major directions of this effort which the commerce secretary has been leading for half a decade include:

The elimination of waste in railway transportation by the provision of adequate facilities and better methods; the vigorous improvement of our inland waterways; the enlarged electrification of the country for the saving in fuel and labor; the reduction of the periodic waves of unemployment; an improved statistical service for industry; the reduction of seasonal employment in construction and other industries and of intermittent employment in such industries as bituminous coal mining; the development of co-operative marketing and better terminal facilities in agricultural products in order to reduce the waste in agriculture distribution; the stimulation of commercial arbitration in order to eliminate the wastes of litigation and the reduction of the waste arising from industrial strife between employers and employees.

The reduction of waste in manufacture and distribution is to be brought about through the establishment of grades, standards of quality, dimensions and performance in countless articles of commerce, through the simplification in dimensions of many articles of manufacture and the reduction of unnecessary varieties, and through more uniform business documents such as specifications, bills of lading and warehouse receipts.

Since the co-operative service was inaugurated, more than fifty simplifications have been achieved by the industries and trades concerned, resulting in an average reduction in varieties of 73 per cent. Among these simplifications of varieties, thirty-one apply to products of iron, steel and other metals; eight to lumber, paper and other products derived from wood; seventeen to clay, cement, glass and other products of a mineral nature, and four to textiles.

The annual value of manufactured goods affected by these simplifications runs well over $2,000,000,000, it is declared.

6,118 Kinds of Axes

A striking illustration of the need of this work is found in the case of one product, single bit axes. Formerly these axes were produced and marketed in thirty-four models, four grades, thirty-five brands, eleven finishes and nineteen sizes, and the total varieties of the thirty-four types actually purchasable were 6,118. Simplification and standardization have not been completed, but the results will be comparable to those in other lines.

For instance, where there were 4,400 sizes or varieties of shovels, grades and scoops in use only 384 are now retained, a reduction of 92 per cent. Wire-rope fence packages have been reduced from 2,072 to 108, or 94 per cent; metal bars from 125 to 21, or 83 per cent; files and rasps from 1,761 to 456, or 74 per cent; forged tools from 1,251 to 251, or 80 per cent; nails from 190 to 12, or 94 per cent; locks and nails from 424 to 181, or 57 per cent; and packing weights of bolts and nails from 123 to 14, or 89 per cent.

On the whole, builders' hardware has been reduced from 34,906 varieties and sizes to 10,618.

Car Shortages Disappear

For the past few years the industry has been engaged in the elimination of waste has gone much toward the provision of adequate transportation. The periodic car shortages of many years past have practically disappeared, although the tonnage load has increased more than 25 per cent since 1914. Average weekly car loadings in 1924 period have increased from 1,100 to 1,400,778; the number of cars per day from 22.4 to 26.9; and average tonnage from 676 to 771 tons.

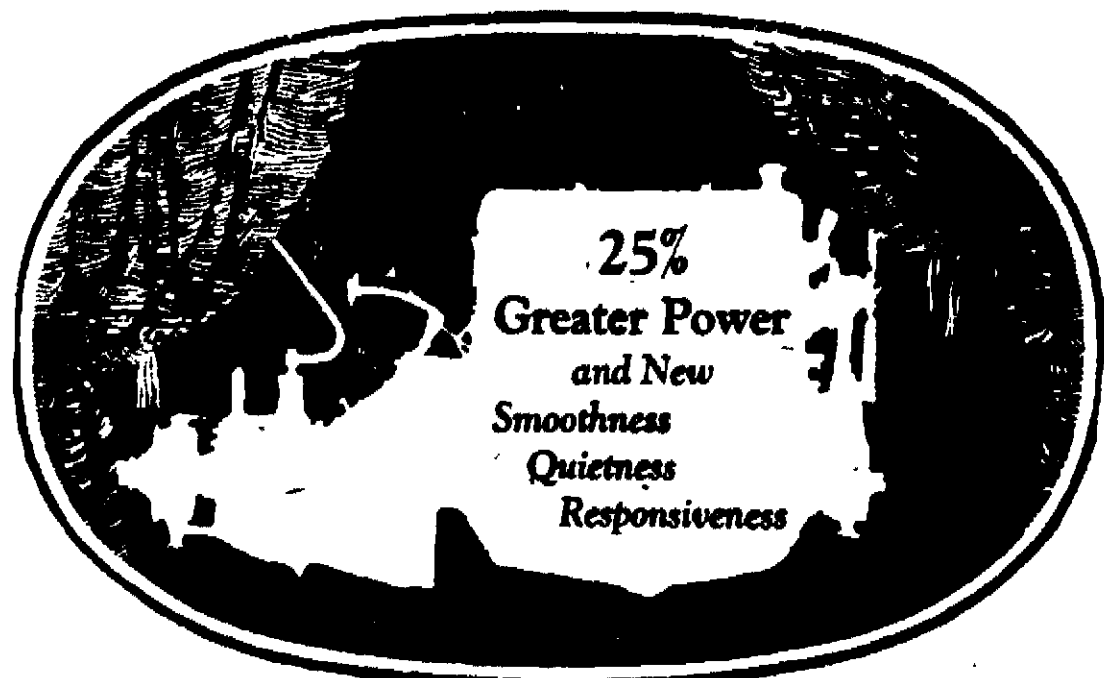

In the building, 37 varieties of common brick, 33 of rough-face brick and 14 of common brick have been reduced to one variety of each. Building tile have been reduced from 34 to 19, roofing slate from 10 to 5, concrete building units from 21 to 5, and so on.

Secretary Hoover also calls attention to figures from the Department of Labor showing that whereas in 1914 the wage rate was 50 per cent above the prewar level and the whole-sale price level, 124 per cent above prewar, in 1924 the wage rate had risen to 210 above prewar, while the wholesale price level had dropped to 10 per cent above prewar.

Comparative figures show that the British wage rate in 1920 was 130 per cent above prewar, and the wholesale price level 180 per cent above prewar, while in 1924 wage rates and wholesale prices had dropped to 70 and 74 per cent, respectively, above

NASH

Leads the World in Motor Car Value

Special Exhibit!

New York Show Attractions!

Featuring "Enclosed Car" Motor

All this week—we are staging for the benefit of local motorists a special automobile display that closely parallels the Nash exhibit at the New York Show.

Come in and inspect, among other important features, the latest Nash engineering achievement—the new "Enclosed Car" Motor. See how Nash has provided power, speed, acceleration, quietness and long life on a basis entirely new to the industry.

Reversing general engineering custom which developed the motor to the open car standard of needs, Nash has created a motor which endows the closed car with a radically new type of performance.

Larger—and with 25% more power—this new Nash "Enclosed Car" Motor gives to a Sedan the brilliant "liveness" and sparkling responsiveness that has hitherto identified the finest kind of touring car action.

In all those qualities dear to your heart—smoothness, quietness and flexibility, thru the entire range of speed and power—Nash has literally re-created former standards.

The thoroughly remarkable "pick-up" of this new "Enclosed Car" Motor is vividly evident when you realize that it flashes from standstill to peak-speed in 23% less elapsed time than before.

Yet it is so economical that consumption of fuel has not been increased one iota.

And the design is such that with normal usage you may expect the mileage to mount well up into five figures before you give the motor the slightest thought beyond ordinary care in changing oil.

Berlins Locked In "Royal Suite"

Reporters and Friends Gather To Welcome Irving and Ellen at Cherbourg Harbor But Honey-mooners Refuse to Leave Suite.

Aboard S. S. Leviathan in English Channel, Jan. 15.—The Berlins, Irving and Ellen, saw the shores of France today, but they saw it from behind the curtained port-holes of the "Royal Suite" on the Leviathan, with their doors locked and denying themselves to a horde of reporters and a handful of friends who attempted to "welcome" them.

The honeymooners locked themselves in their suite early this morning and never once peeped out when the Leviathan dropped anchor in Cherbourg harbor and remained there for two hours discharging passengers on board a tender.

From Paris there had come a horde of reporters and a small army of photographers but the Berlins refused to leave their suite even to pose for pictures.

Messages were sent in to the honeymooners by stewards and attempts were made to reach the room by telephone, but all to no end. Even those who had declared they were "intimate friends" of the Berlins failed to get any response.

Captain Hartley of the Leviathan spoke on behalf of the honeymoon couple.

"All those two kids want is to be left alone," said Captain Hartley good naturedly to the disappointed "welcome party." They have been very quiet through the whole trip.

"You fellows should feel so badly," a horde of reporters tried to storm their suite and wanted to break down the doors before the Leviathan left New York.

Passengers on the Leviathan said the Berlins had been seen but comparatively little during the trip and there was no indication that any radio message of forgiveness had come by radio from the father of the young bride.

The Leviathan left Cherbourg at 3 o'clock and is now steaming across the English Channel in unfavorable conditions. The ship is due at Southampton around 3 this afternoon but may be delayed by bad weather in the channel.

Considerable mystery surrounds the report that $1,000,000 worth of jewelry was stolen from Mrs. George L. Mesker while she was at dinner at her Palm Beach home. Mrs. Mesker says the jewels were worth only a few thousands.

Thought He Had Found China
John Cabot, on his return to England, after having discovered North America, reported that he had found some seven hundred leagues away, the mainland of the country of the "Great Cham," the monarch of China.

Gets Hard Order
A firm of London clothiers has received an order which will be difficult to fill. A customer, who is one hundred and two years of age, has placed an order for a suit of "light quality" cloth that will last ten years.

Cross Formed by Arrows
The Maltese cross of eight points which was the badge of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem, Knights of Malta, was originally formed by the four barbed arrows meeting at their points.

Washington's Degree
Only one college degree was ever conferred on George Washington. That was an LL.B. given him by Washington College in Maryland. The original is in the congressional library at Washington.

TO SHOW FAMOUS MOVIE AT TRINITY LUTHERAN CHURCH.

The eight reel moving picture entitled "Martin Luther, His Life and Times" will have two showings, one at 7 p. m. and the other at 9 p. m. at Trinity Lutheran Church, Spring and Howe streets, on Wednesday, January 20. This wonderful screen drama is offered for use to the Lutheran Church only, although the highest class picture houses have tried to secure it and offered cash.

MOSES, SAYS.

"The Educational Screen" in a recent issue, says of the film: "A real picture for the church—and church. It is a presentation of the great hero of the Reformation that is true to history. It is full of action, dramatic, gripping, fascinating. It is the message of four hundred years ago that is needed equally today. It covers his life and the many stirring events centering about him from his birth in 1483 up to his death in 1531. It carries out in a most striking and beautiful way in the picture art, his own expressed idea: 'Art imparts valuable lessons in a visual form.'"

This film in no wise features any church domination.

Card of Thanks.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fields and family wish to thank all of their friends for their kind expressions of sympathy expressed in the loss of their son and brother, also the flowers sent, and especially the employees of the U. S. Lumber Company. Ad- vancement.

"TOP THIEF"

The persistence with which Democrats continue warnings against allowing Republicans to play politics with the "organization plan" is, to say the least, interesting. In almost every utterance something is said as to the likelihood of Republicans injecting politics into the matter, while in the same breath it is inferred that the Democrats would not think of permitting politics to have any part in the proceedings. But now Democrats are so zealous to prevent Republicans from resorting to politics that the Democratic method of stopping it would suggest the old ruse of "stop thief."

From the very beginning of the organization idea Democrats have been skirmishing around so when the work was taken up they would not get, as they said themselves, the worst of it politically. This talk commenced way back with the Smith reconstruction commission, which was looked upon by many as a Democratic organization put together for the benefit of the Democratic party. The recommendations were subtly made but, analyzed, it was to be seen that Tammany was not to be overlooked in what might arise in the line of patronage.

Governor Smith has preached against political maneuvering but whether he would practice as much as he would exhort is another tune. Nobody has ever accused the governor of not playing politics when he had a chance, but now he joins with the other Democrats in denouncing those who would think of such a thing as politics in connection with any public proposal. The truth is, almost from every Democratic source propaganda has been put out to watch Republicans so they could not play politics with the state reorganization.

Those who have watched Democrats making it appear as if Republicans would surely play politics have been amused for the reason that it is certain that Chairman Hughes will not stoop to politics, and it is just as certain that he will not permit Tammany to get in its work either. But the Democrats continue to shout "stop thief" just the same, their deduction apparently being that if they go on shouting they will stop the Republicans in the Legislature from playing politics so that the Democrats can distract attention and get away with everything themselves and not be caught.

PORTS OF MISSING MEN.

In 1925 more than twenty thousand persons disappeared in New York city alone. A notable tribute to the efficiency of the metropolitan police—so often the target of criticism—is to be found in the fact that 95 per cent of the missing were found or otherwise accounted for. Such is the interesting report of New York's Bureau of Missing Persons. Only two per cent succeeded in getting out of sight and remaining hidden an impenetrable veil of silence. In cases where such was the purpose, Where is this "port of missing men?"

Anywhere the man who wants to cover his past shows intelligence enough to act a quiet part and excite no suspicion as he again picks up the threads of life and makes a new start, good or bad. Not all such men are or have been criminals. The misfit, unsuccessful and ashamed, or the merely weary of the monotony of the home scene, as well as the crook, may dream of and seek another beginning in pastures new, reaching after in this world what the many hope for in the world to come.

Often the description of the missing includes "mental condition poor," and more often they are listed as mere runaways, these latter made up of adventure-seeking boys and girls, and even little children who have innocently or perversely wandered away. Obviously there is too often a selfish disregard of the anxiety and heartache which the "missing" in many cases leave behind them.

Although the government has repaid no pains to advise ex-servicemen of their rights under the bonus act, it is now reported, eighteen months after the law went into effect, that no less than 700,000 men entitled to compensation have not been heard from. Many ex-servicemen were said to be opposed to the bonus—not wishing to be "paid for patriotism"—but this would hardly prevent the most of them from accepting, once the law was passed and by itself it does not explain why as many as one out of every five war veterans have not filed their applications for what is legally theirs.

Paderewski now plays the piano in the cities of the world chiefly with a view to raise money to relieve distress in his beloved Poland. His gift of $25,000 to the American Legion's endowment fund is the more notable, as well as the more generous, for this reason.

That Body of Yours

AN INGROWING DISPOSITION.

I ran across an expression recently that certainly fits a great number of the human race at present.

I have in mind the individual that isn't satisfied with the world and the way the world treats him. He thinks he gets the worst end of things in life. He worries about things that may possibly happen to him in the days to come. His meals don't agree with him and his sleep is not restful, because he carries his business and worries to bed with him.

Now a health writer speaks of this individual as having an "ingrowing disposition."

We are all more or less familiar with the individual who fits into the above picture. When we are not feeling at our best, most of us could qualify as that type of individual ourselves.

There is the boy or girl who is allowed to keep his or her mind turned in upon themselves all the time. No inclination to be just one of a crowd in a game of any kind. This type grows up with the ingrowing disposition or self inspection mind. Everything connected with himself assumes unequal proportions. Any little ailment becomes a serious illness, and he is never at one hundred per cent efficiency. He naturally becomes the same kind of a man. But then there is the other individual who has always been just one of the crowd, normal in fact. When he gets an ingrowing disposition, there must be some reason for it.

An ingrowing nail on the toe can certainly keep the owner thereof in a constant state of irritation, mentally and physically.

When a normal individual develops an ingrowing disposition, it is just as certain that there is a cause for it as there is for the pain from the ingrowing nail.

It is due to some infection and in middle aged folks it is usually due to the teeth, or perhaps the tonsils.

So don't be a "grouch" with the ingrowing disposition. Let your family doctor look you over and locate the trouble.

And don't let any member of the family develop that ingrowing disposition. It can be prevented, and if present can be removed, you look far enough for the trouble.

CHATEAU FRONTENAC DESTROYED BY FIRE

Quebec, Jan. 15.—Chateau Frontenac, one of the most famous hotels on the North American continent, was a sorry sight today.

Fire during the night had swept the old wing of Dufferin Terrace, high above the St. Lawrence river, and smoke and water damaged the newer section. Damage was estimated at $2,000,000.

Three hundred guests had escaped from the chateau but one man, a commercial traveller, was overcome by smoke.

A short circuit, caused by the blowing out of a fuse in the old tower, is believed to have caused the fire.

A special train, carrying Montreal fire fighters, reached here shortly after midnight, but the Quebec firemen had the flames under control.

Five firemen and a spectator were injured.

Two hours after the fire was discovered the old tower fell with the sound of artillery fire.

Meantime, the hotel guests, with the exception of the commercial traveller, who was carried out, had escaped with their belongings.

Priceless works of art, paintings and tapestries were damaged and the royal suites were destroyed.

Giving Publicity To the Catskills

An article of more than passing interest to the business-men of Kingston and the nearby towns and villages of the Catskill region appears in the February issue of Motor Camper and Tourist. This widely read popular monthly magazine will feature, during the next six months, a series of articles accompanied by pictorial illustrations and tourist's maps of various parts of the Catskills. It is the first time that so long a period of publicity has ever been presented to any one section by a publication so well known to lovers of outdoor sports and pleasures both in this country and in Canada.

The introductory article is devoted particularly to Kingston and the district in the vicinity of the Ashokan reservoir. As the thousands of readers of the magazine are chiefly campers, vacationists and automobile tourists, the main items of interest to these prospective visitors are especially brought to the fore. Acquainting the new comers with the fine places where an enjoyable week end or pleasant vacation can be spent in good wholesome surroundings is a part of the purpose of this novel series, and many seekers of out-door recreations and sports, fishing and hunting, as well as those who desire to find pleasure and rest, will be attracted by the realistic manner employed by the author in describing the natural beauties of the Catskill region.

The Origin of the U. S. A.

By Jonathan A. Rawson, Jr.

NOT DEAD BUT SLEEPETH.

"Are you still solicitous to hear of our Confederation?" I will tell you. It is not dead but sleepeth. I do not despair of it—since our enemies themselves are hastening it."

Thus wrote Samuel Adams early in January, 1776. One hundred and fifty years ago today he wrote to his distinguished cousin, John Adams, expressing his impatience because New Hampshire, when adopting a constitution on January 5, had not spoken somewhat more boldly about a separation from Great Britain.

Said Samuel to John of the New Hampshire brethren: "There is one part of them at least, which I think discovers a timidity which is unbecoming a people oppressed and insulted as they are, and who at their own request have been advised and authorized by Congress to set up and exercise Government in such form as they should judge most conducive to their own happiness."

The confederation of which Adams wrote was to be a permanent union of the colonies, nothing less in fact than such a union as is now the United States of America. The colonies had taken up arms against Great Britain while bound together only by common interests and common needs for defense, and they had no written constitution or formal compact. Their representatives met together in Congress by mutual agreement, by common consent, not at all as yet as men of one nation.

NOTHING BETTER THAN POTATOES*Baking Is Most Popular Method for Cooking.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Properly done, baking is the best method of any for cooking potatoes. The flavor developed is exceptionally appetizing, and perhaps the fact that a baked potato will serve to convey an unusual amount of butter makes a fully seasoned baked potato a universal favorite.

Cook those of the same size together, or the smaller ones will cook tender first and become soggy or dry, while the others finish baking. Scrub the skins well, as many people like to eat them. Trim only where absolutely necessary. Put potatoes on a grate in a moderate oven, and bake 45 to 50 minutes, according to size. A very hot oven produces a hard, dark crust. When the potatoes feel meaty and tender to the very center, when pinched, or pierced with a fork, take them out.

Baked Potatoes, Gashed to Let Steam Out.

of the oven immediately and pinch between the fingers so as to crack the potato skin open on one side and let out the steam. Or this may be done by gashing them with a knife. Press the flesh of the potato outwards so that it bulges a little through the opening. Place a lump of butter on each potato, sprinkle with paprika, and serve at once.

Stuffed baked potatoes are made by cutting off the end of the potato, or cutting the potatoes in halves lengthwise, and scooping out the inside in order to mix it with butter, cream and seasonings. A little chopped cooked meat, such as sausage, may be mixed with the stuffing, or spinach, parsley, onion butter, or any preferred flavoring. Sometimes a raw egg is added to the hot potato, and often grated cheese is mixed with it and sprinkled on top. The stuffing is packed back in the shells or half potato skins, and the stuffed potatoes are then put into a hot oven to brown a little. Paprika is sprinkled over the tops if liked.

Keep Clothing Budget,
Check Unwise Expenses

Economy in purchase and upkeep of clothing is easier when expenditures are planned in advance. The woman who so plans and classifies her expenditures will set aside a sum for clothing based on the clothing she has on hand and the use she can make of it, on her known needs, and on her income. The clothing budget should be her guide when she buys. Even if she does not do just what she has planned, she will be more likely to avoid mistakes than she would if she acted without a plan. Giving the purchase careful consideration with respect to her expenditures in general, in the opinion of the Department of Agriculture, follows well planned and intelligently followed should enable men and women to budget system is equally valuable for both—to be better dressed for a given sum than when purchases are made haphazard.

A budget shows the relative amount spent for clothing as compared with other needs, and the relation of the probable purchases to what one has on hand.

It prevents unwise spending, since it helps one to consider quality in relation to price. It promotes saving.

FARM WOMEN MAKE HATS AT LITTLE COST

Farm Women Learn to Make Their Own Hats.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Every woman likes to feel that she has an individual and becoming hat. For this reason she endeavors to learn through about the principles of hat-making and education to purchase or construct hats for herself and for the members of her family intelligently. Hat-making is one of the most profitable branches of the work for women and girls conducted under the direction of extension agents co-operatively employed by the United States Department of Agriculture and the various state agricultural colleges, through the instruction given to millinery women learn how to make hats at small cost, often using materials on hand.

The Iowa women shown in the illustration have learned how to make a buckram frame, to fit their own head size, and how to wire it. They are covering these frames with silk, velvet, and other materials. The home demonstration meeting is being held at the home of one of their number, and the agent or local leader is giving advice and instruction.

POLENTA IS CHEAP
NOURISHING FOOD*Corn-Meal Mush May Be Served in Different Ways.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

This dish, which is common in Italy, differs little, except in name, from corn-meal mush, though it is served in very different ways. Sometimes cheese is added during the cooking. Polenta is often reheated either with tomato sauce or meat gravy or a combination of these. In any case, the dish is improved by sprinkling the cooked polenta with cheese. When the polenta is to be reheated in gravy, it is well to cut it into small pieces in order that the gravy may be well distributed through the dish.

To make the mush, put the corn meal, cold water and salt together in the top of a double boiler. No stirring is necessary. Put the top of the double boiler into the lower part and allow the mush to heat slowly, cooking half an hour, if convenient. Many people cook it as long as four hours. For each cupful of meal allow from 1 to 1½ level teaspoonfuls of salt and from 3½ to 4½ cupfuls of water, depending on the length of cooking. Milk may be added in place of part or all of the water. Just before serving remove the top of the double boiler from the lower part and boil the mush for two or three minutes. In boiling it at this time there is no danger that it will jump.

Tomato Sauce for Polenta.
1 tablespoonful 1 cupful thick
butter strained tomato
1 tablespoonful juice
flour Salt and pepper

Melt the butter; cook the flour thoroughly in it; add the tomato juice and seasonings, and cook until smooth, stirring constantly.

Savory Sauce.
Take two ounces of salt pork, bacon or sausage. If bacon or pork is used, cut it into small pieces. Heat until crisp but not burned. In the fat which separates out from the meat, cook a small amount of finely chopped onion and red or green pepper, being careful not to burn them. Add one cupful of thick tomato juice or a larger amount of uncooked juice, and cook the mixture until it is reduced to a cupful. Season with salt. To this sauce capers, mushrooms or finely chopped pickles may be added.

Cooking Bacon Until It Is Delicious and Crisp

Frying bacon so that it is thoroughly delicious and crisp is chiefly a matter of getting the water and excess fat out of it, says the United States Department of Agriculture. In order not to burn it, one should be very careful that neither the bacon nor the fat in the pan becomes overcooked. Throughout the process the fat should remain a light-brown color and should not be allowed to get dark brown. It is easier, therefore, to cook it slowly than to cook it fast.

To be crisp, bacon does not need to drain while it is cooking. It can even be fried in deep fat with excellent results. But after it is cooked and has been taken from the pan it should be thoroughly drained while still hot, then served promptly. Some prefer to cook bacon placing it in a skillet and covering it with boiling water. It is then boiled until the water has cooked away and finished by browning in the bacon fat.

Another way of cooking bacon is to broil it under the gas flame on a wire rack set over a drip pan, which catches the fat. The bacon should be turned after one side is brown. It can be also browned in the oven.

Sometimes bacon is cut up into thin slices and allowed to stand in milk for about 20 minutes, after which it is removed, rolled in flour and fried, a cream gravy is made from the fat in the pan and the milk previously used.

SPRINGBUCK'S STORY

"I'm the Springbuck from South Africa."

"All right, no one says you're not, but I'm the Reedbuck from South Africa."

"We're both small antelopes."

"I have reason for my name," said the Springbuck.

"Have you indeed?" remarked the Reedbuck, who wanted very much to ask what it was but did not want to appear too curious and too much interested.

"I have," repeated the Springbuck. "Well, if you feel like telling the reason I won't stop you," said the Reedbuck.

"Not that I care especially one way or the other."

"You know you want to hear," said the Springbuck.

"Oh very well, if you may so," answered the Reedbuck. "I will agree. I like to be pleasant."

"You would like to hear the reason," muttered the Springbuck.

"Well, I will tell you."

And at that the Reedbuck almost jumped with joy but stopped just in time for he did not want to flatter the Springbuck too much.

"I was named my fine and honorable name of Springbuck and so were all my family, because we can spring high into the air when we are hurrying or running to get anywhere.

"I'm a Springbuck."

"So instead of being an ordinary buck I'm a Springbuck, meaning I'm a buck who can spring, high—ho!"

"My name has nothing to do with the season of the year."

"I don't just appear during the springtime as the birds and spring blossoms do."

"Oh no, that would not suit me at all."

"I'm a Reedbuck," the other said, "but it doesn't mean that I'm a buck who can read."

"My name is spelled differently in the first place, and in the second place it would never do a buck any good to be able to read."

"I am named after the reeds that grow in the water for I'm a waterbuck, and a handsome one, too, if anyone should ask me."

"No one did ask you," said the Springbuck.

"If anyone should ask me I have my answer all ready," replied the Reedbuck proudly.

"My horns are small, but nice and curly—naturally curly like curly hair. Only they're horns," said the Springbuck.

"I have finely curved horns," said the Reedbuck, "for I pride myself on being across and good-looking."

"I took a broom the keeper left here and broke it all to pieces."

"He tried to get it from me but he couldn't."

"He tried and tried and tried, too."

"It's all right to be pleased with your looks, but there is nothing to be proud about when you are so cross."

"You should be ashamed of that," said the Springbuck.

"Well, I am so thankful I'm in the zoo and away from where the leopards and jaguars go a-hunting."

The Reedbuck said he was thankful, too.

Not far away two Miss Angora Goats were talking.

"My mother has just been telling me," said one, "that I was born in the zoo last spring. She said I stood up when I was half an hour old on my own feet, and that I was born with my eyes wide open as all angoras are. It was nice to hear that I did the right thing."

"My mother told me," said the second Miss Angora, "that she shed a great deal of wool after I came and was nicely clipped so she could have a new coat."

"So did we all," said a Mrs. Angora.

By this time all the angora goats were talking together. They were speaking of the young ones who came in the spring, of the days back in Asia which the older ones remembered about—the ones who had not been born in the zoo.

TIPS FOR THE TEA TABLE

We are becoming more and more in favor of the afternoon tea habit, which is such a custom in England. There is something very cheery about a cup of tea served in a pleasant room with a snappy, sociable fire burning in the grate. It is not necessary to be endowed with much of this world's goods to feel that a cup of tea to a friend is not an extravagance. The housewife with no maid will not find such entertainment burdensome, with a tea wagon one trip from the kitchen will be sufficient. If one can brew the tea on the tea table, it furnishes entertainment, for we all enjoy things in the process of making.

In most homes there is a cookie jar and one of doughnuts; a few of the doughnuts sugar just before serving, will be all that is required with the cup of tea. Sandwiches are always nice and if one has time, the open sandwiches prepared and ready to serve are most attractive.

It is wisdom to eat very lightly, of any afternoon repast, so it will not spoil the appetite for dinner; so very small servings of any dainty food are the rule in most homes.

If inclined to adroitly, omit the cream and take the lemon, pineapple or a bit of sliced orange in the tea.

As sugar is always used by some, try rubbing the cubes on the well-washed skin of an orange or lemon and grating out the essential oil of the fruit into the sugar. It will add a most attractive flavor to a cup of tea.

Lemon Butter.—Into the upper part of a double boiler put two cupfuls of sugar and one cupful of butter with the grated rind of three lemons. Cream together, setting over the hot water. Add the juice of the three lemons and stir until well mixed. Beat with an egg beater until smooth. This makes a delicious spread for slices of sponge cake, buttered bread for sandwiches, and is a well-liked pudding sauce. It will keep in the ice chest and be ready for any occasion.

Genius Not Overcome by Distasteful Toil

"You can take your choice—go back to Cheeshire tomorrow or go to work in the clock factory."

These were the alternatives offered to young Bronson Alcott by his father, Alcott, who was to become the father of Louisa May Alcott, had returned from the home of his uncle, where he had been sent to go to school. Honore Willis Morrow, writing in McCall's, has told of the early life of this neglected man of letters. He relates:

"I'll go to the clock factory," said Bronson quickly. And so it was decided.

"The sort of work required of him made no demands on his mind, and by carrying one of his precious borrowed books always with him, he did not stagnate, though at the time he thought he did and was terribly unhappy. Yet, rather than go to Cheeshire, he chose to face the work for nearly two years. His father, watching him start off each morning along the lonely and precipitous path-way that led the two miles from the farm to the factory, yearned over him, wondered at his gentle, obstinate, over-ruled him but never, evidently, lost his faith or understanding."

Imperishable Mottoes

Consolidation Is Big Task

Disagreement Among Members Planning Reorganization of State Government—Date of Consolidation in Dispute.

Albany, Jan. 15.—Members of the committee headed by former Secretary of State Charles E. Hughes, who are planning a reorganization of the state government, may not be able to submit their report to Governor Smith and the 1926 legislature before the latter part of February, it was learned today at the capitol.

The committee, according to reports, is finding the task of consolidating the 147 bureaus and agencies of the state government into 20 main departments much more difficult than was at first expected.

Under the amendment to the constitution adopted at the last election, the heads of the 20 departments will be appointed by the governor.

If the present session continues well into the summer, and Speaker McDermott of the assembly said he expected the legislature would be in session before final adjournment is taken, it will be because of the reorganization legislation.

As yet, according to word reaching the capitol, the Hughes committee has been able to agree on only a few of the more important changes in the operation of the state government which must be brought about through the reorganization amendment.

It is understood the committee has about decided to recommend to the legislature the establishment of a constitutional executive budget. This proposal has been advocated for years by Governor Smith but rejected by the Republican legislative leaders in favor of a statutory budget plan.

The date of which many of the consolidations should take place appears to be in dispute. Governor Smith thinks the minor consolidations should go into effect the first of next July, when the state's fiscal year ends, while many of the G. O. P. legislative leaders would like to see all the changes made on January 1, 1927.

Several of the meetings of the Hughes committee, which are being held in New York, have been turned into virtually a debating society so great is the disagreement among some of the members on what should be done with certain departments.

It is understood the committee will recommend that the state motion picture censorship commission be transferred to the education department. For years Governor Smith has urged the abolition of this body.

Have Antenna of Very Few Losses

How to Construct Insulator That Will Be an Aid in Sharp Tuning.

In this day and age of low loss receivers and high selectivity, writes a correspondent in Radio News, it is necessary to have an antenna of very few losses, or the resistance of the antenna will be so high as to make it impossible to tune the set sharply.

How to do this? The antenna must be constructed of wire that will not corrode readily, enameled wire being the best. However, the most important thing is to have the best insulation possible. The very best insulator for the antenna is air, but of course that is out of the question.

Use of the Plate. Doubtless, someone will think that because this insulator was designed for a transmitting antenna that it will not be good for the average broadcasting antenna. It is only necessary to remove the aluminum plate at the end of the insulator and you will have one of the very best insulators for a one-wire antenna.

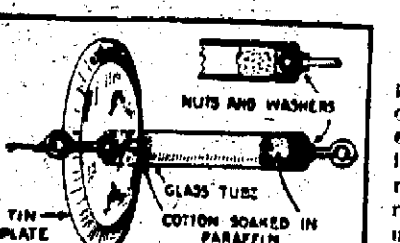

Plate and Glass Toothbrush Holder Used for Insulation.

The plate is for use only when the insulator is used on a cage antenna with a transmitter.

The material that is necessary is as follows: Long type toothbrush holder with screwcap at each end. This can be bought for about twenty cents.

If the insulator is for transmitting antenna use a small aluminum plate. The other materials are odds and ends and can be found around the work shop.

Using Melted Paraffin.

Begin by moving the cap at the ends of the holder. Stuff small pieces of cotton in each end of the tube. Now it will be possible to pour in melted paraffin. Just enough should be poured in to seal the tube. This will prevent moisture from entering the tube and thus destroying the insulating power of the glass.

Instead of paraffin, sealing wax, such as found on the top of dry cells, may be used to seal the ends of the insulator. Now eyeballs of about the same design as shown in the sketch and threaded on the end, should be constructed. When the eyeball is attached to the cap it will be found necessary to place a big washer on the inside of the cap and a smaller one on the outside of the cap. This will prevent the ventilation holes on the cap from pulling out. It is a simple matter to place the aluminum plate at the end of the insulator. When the plate is used it should always be put at the end of the insulator which is hooked to the antenna.

When it is constructed, you will have a very fine insulator, which takes very little time to build, has a remarkable pulling strength and is very cheap.

No man is old so long as he plans for the future instead of talking about the past.

S. L. F. Condensers Aid Tuning of Wave Motors

The wave motor, whether it be plain or be made with all the finer improvements, is one of the most handy pieces of apparatus any builder of receiving sets can have. Here, therefore, the tuning of a wave motor has been a rather difficult feat because a very slight change in capacity threw the circuit out of resonance.

The insertion of a straight-line frequency condenser in the wave-meter circuit will greatly facilitate the finding of the resonant point because a large change in dial setting is essential for a small change in capacity, except at one end of the dial, but as the frequency variation is the same, tuning may be accomplished with the same ease.

For wave-meter construction it is essential that condensers with heavy plates, strong supporting members and accurate spacing be used. This necessitates the use of an instrument with concentric plates because eccentric plate condensers are of a necessity made with thin plates, which makes the capacity calibration subject to change without notice.

How to Enlarge Holes When Building Receiver

The best way to make holes in a panel large enough to take the jacks or for the shafts of variable condensers, rheostats or other instruments, is to first drill a large hole and then replace the drill with a flat file of rather fine grain. A flat file will usually taper down to sufficient width to just about squeeze into the hole made by the drill and if it is turned in the brace slowly, usually in a reverse direction, the file will cut away the side of the hole, gradually enlarging it until it is of sufficient size to accommodate the jack. Do not try to work the drill fast or it may snap-off the file. If it seems to stick and work itself into a self-cut thread, reverse the direction and work at a slower rate. This method of enlarging holes will greatly assist in building the receiver and at the same time will give a smooth, clean-cut hole.

Spider Cannibals

A real cannibal island has been set up in the London zoo insect house. The inhabitants are merely big bird-eating spiders which occasionally reach England from the tropics hidden amongst bananas. But they are cannibals "born and bred." It is owing to their preference for each other, rather than for the cockroaches given them as food, that each spider has to be confined in a glass jar by itself.

If He Gets a Bump

To reduce that bump sustained by Junior, press a silver knife blade against the swelling for a few minutes, then make alternate applications of hot and cold water, allowing the latter to be of somewhat longer duration than the former. This treatment, if applied at once, will bring down the swelling entirely and prevent discoloration.

Waiting His Time

"I'm afraid I'll have to let you go," said the boss. "What's the matter?" demanded Al. "Well," replied the boss, "if our plant was manufacturing excuses, you'd probably be the highest-priced expert in the place, but since they are out of our line, I think you'd better take your talents elsewhere."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

WHEN I WAS TWENTY-ONE

BY JOSEPH KAYE

AT 21—George Gibbs, the Novelist. Decided Definitely to Abandon the Real Estate Business.

"AT THE time I began the really serious business of working every night at an art school, seeking the equipment I long needed to make an artist of me.

"Before this I had been a midshipman at the navy academy, because my father had been a surgeon in the navy. After I spent three years working laboriously at football, verse and pen sketches, with accidental moments of mathematics and chemistry, I was permitted to resign.

"My second endeavor was obviously to plumb misfortune to its depths, for I can imagine no other reason for entering the real estate business, or in studying international law, the one too concrete, and the other not concrete enough to avoid the wars into which my country was successfully plunged.

"When I decided to enter the art school I bade a long farewell to real estate without regret. Instead of great artistic success however, there followed success as a writer of special articles. After this a studio, illustrations for the magazines and an invitation to move to Philadelphia and work on the staff of a well-known magazine.—George Gibbs.

TODAY—Mr. Gibbs is a famous American novelist. He wrote his first book when he was thirty-one. It was called "In Search of Mademoiselle," and by a neat coincidence he actually found her at the same time in Philadelphia and married her. Some of Mr. Gibbs' novels are, "The Bolted Door," "Sackcloth and Scarlet," "The Splendid Outcasts," "Flies of Ambition," "The Yellow Dove."

AN ABBREVIATED STORY

TALKING LADIES

"WHAT do the Earthwomen talk about?" wondered Jazbo, the man from Mars. "It would be impossible for me truthfully to reflect the life on this planet in my forthcoming book unless I gain an accurate impression of the distinction in the conversations of its various classes of women. I will start at the bottom."

And he betook himself to the poorest section of the great city and he hearkened eagerly as Mrs. Hardist conversed with Mrs. Fernjaw across their mutual back fence.

"I don't know what we're coming to a tall, with servants getting so independent and independent," Mrs. Hardist was saying. "Would you believe it, Mrs. Fernjaw, the little hussy says to me only this morning, she says, 'Mrs. Hardist, she says, 'I know Mr. Hardist gets $4.50 for every 20 bricks he lays now, and I won't come in and help you with the dishes any more for less'n a dollar an evening.'"

"Most interesting," reflected Jazbo. And he bled himself to Mrs. Van Booster's sumptuous drawing room where an informal tea party was in progress, just in time to hear Mrs. Peyster-Luzas remarking, "Really, ladies, what the end of it all will be, I fully don't know. My maid Celeste demanded another increase of $10 a week yesterday, rally."

"Odd, very," thought Jazbo, and waited himself to a meeting of the Ladies' Browning and Shakespeare club, where Mrs. Highbrow-Specks, the president, was saying, "The situation is one not to be lightly dismissed, you know. My cook gave notice today because I refused to give her $5 more a week and the use of the automobile."

"I think I'll omit that chapter," said Jazbo, apologetically to himself, and went to take a lesson in change the subject.

OFFICE WASHINGTON USED AS SURVEYOR TO BE SAVED

Steps Taken to Preserve Hut He Used When Surveying Lands for Lord Fairfax.

Richmond, Va.—A neglected scene of George Washington's youthful labors is now coming in for its share of public attention. The little stone office in which he worked for Lord Fairfax will soon become a show spot of Clarke county, Va.

A hundred and seventy-seven years ago George Washington might have been found there any day, figuring busily and poring over outstretched charts and maps. In the neighborhood he made his first acquaintance, as a surveyor, with a country he was later to know as a soldier. Here he became accustomed to hardships and privations such as were to be his lot in the Revolutionary war. The little office is only some sixty miles or so from Washington, D. C. When the young surveyor worked there it was on a wild frontier.

Henry, Lord Fairfax, was once visiting his relative, William Fairfax, when George Washington was present. Lawrence Washington had married William Fairfax's daughter. The great man took a fancy to the boy. Just past his seventeenth birthday, finding in him abilities and attainments beyond his years, he engaged him to survey his vast tracts of land in the rich valley of the Alleghenies.

Washington set out in March, 1748, together with George William Fairfax, and, through Ashby's Gap in the Blue Ridge mountains, the western frontier of inhabited Virginia, they passed into the valley. In the wilderness near the Shenandoah river, about twelve miles from the present town of Winchester, they stopped at a lodge where Lord Fairfax's land agent, or steward, dwelt with as many negroes as were necessary to farm the newly cleared land.

This first arduous expedition lasted five weeks, with results of such satisfaction to Lord Fairfax that he himself moved across the Blue Ridge soon afterward, taking up his quarters at the lodge. He held out a manner for the place, which he called Greenway Court, after his ancestral home in England; but the house was never built. The master himself slept in a wooden structure about twelve feet square. On the lawn near by he built a one-story office, where his deeds were drawn and his quit rents collected. There the boy Washington did his work.

The office had been left largely to the ravages of time and the elements in recent years. But repairs and restoration are now at hand.

A committee has been formed, of which Graham F. Kennedy of New York is chairman, to collect funds for re-

Notorious Theater to

Revive Shakespeare

London.—Shakespeare is to invade Leicester square—the Leicester square made famous throughout the world by "Tipperary"—and is to go into the heart of what was once London's vaudeville center.

Sybil Thorneycroft will play the leading feminine role in "Henry VIII." at the Empire theater, known for many years as the domain of all London music halls.

The bar and promenade of this theater became a public scandal, and officials intervened to remedy conditions, which had brought on a storm of protest.

Neither critics nor public seem to be able to think of the Empire as a Shakespearean house. The shadow of Sir Henry Irving at the Lyceum and Booth's Tru at His Majesty's are pictured as haunting. But even if Leicester square has had a rather untimely reputation, some of the critics point out that Henry VIII was not exactly a saint and probably will not feel out of place there.

After all, there is a statue of Shakespeare in Leicester square.

3,974 Aliens in Ulster County

According to 1925 Census Report submitted to the Legislature—New York State's Population 4,112,162. 151 of which 1,491,369 Are Aliens.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 14.—New York state's total population of 4,112,162 is made up of 1,494,369 aliens, according to the 1925 census report submitted today to the Legislature by Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, secretary of state.

From a political standpoint, the chief interest in the census report centers in the citizen population of the various counties on account of the coming reapportionment in which alien population plays no part.

Ten years ago when the last reapportionment was made, the state had a population of 3,687,744 of which 1,587,744 of which 1,628,229 were aliens.

Of the 3,687,356 persons in New York city, 1,231,200 are aliens. The sixty cities in the state have an aggregate population of 8,505,562 of which 1,343,736 are aliens.

There are 505 incorporated villages with a total population of 1,017,966 of which 59,525 are aliens.

Albany county has 10,893 aliens; Broome, 101,420; Erie, 56,283; New York, 487,938; Monroe, 34,975; Westchester, 47,422; Washington, 1,408; Suffolk, 14,492; Schenectady, 10,131; Richmond, 15,571; Queens, 69,622; Onondaga, 19,806; Oneida, 18,067; Kings, 94,887; Genesee, 3,309; Cortland, 872; Broome, 145,186; Orleans, 1,376; Rockland, 3,278, and Ulster 3,974.

Briand Cabinet Expected to Fall

Radical Socialist Deputies Will Oppose Doumer Financial Project—Premier Intends to Support Doumer.

Paris, Jan. 15.—Premier Briand and his cabinet totter on the brink of one more political crisis today.

A group of one hundred and forty radical socialist deputies today unanimously decided to oppose the Doumer financial project when it is brought before the chamber tomorrow. These deputies will support instead the financial project of the Left bloc.

This new maneuver leaves Premier Briand depending entirely upon the deputies of the Right and center parties for a majority in the chamber and his prospects of a majority are far from bright.

Some radical leaders are reported not to be anxious to face a crisis at this time and it is understood that they have made overtures to M. Briand for a compromise, one of their conditions being that Finance Minister Doumer and his associates be sacrificed.

The premier thus far has given no evidence of weakening in his loyal support of Finance Minister Doumer, and it appears that he intends to face the chamber tomorrow and rely upon his personal ability to break the solid bloc of the opposition.

Certainly that M. Briand is about to fall, many of the Left leaders have appealed to M. Herriot to resign from the presidency of the chamber in order that he may take up the premier's ship if Briand falls. There appears to be but little doubt but what M. Herriot will be the logical choice of President Doumergue if the present cabinet must resign.

ORCHARD CLEANINGS

PRUNE ALL APPLE AND PEAR TREES

While the tendency of many fruit growers is to do little or no pruning yet there are many good reasons for judicious and intelligent pruning. Some of these reasons and principles for pruning should be briefly considered.

This change from heavy to light pruning has been brought about through a careful study of the yield records in the best orchards of the state. Growers are now aware of the fact that heavy pruning tends to dwarf the trees and delay the period of bearing. It is generally known that pruning reduces the leaf surface and to that extent dwarfs the branch that is pruned, while stimulation of growth by pruning is only temporary and continues only so long as the balance between the root and the top remains unequal.

When two branches form a narrow crotch they often split apart. This can be avoided usually by pruning one of the branches severely, thus making it a side branch by dwarfing it. The other branch which is pruned less, will gain the ascendancy, grow stronger and the weak crotch may be strengthened.

The removal of a large branch will generally cause a heavy growth of water sprouts while the cutting of smaller branches near branches of about the same size produces the minimum amount of water sprout growth. When new growth is desired, the pruning should be distributed over the sides and top of the entire tree. If the top of the tree should be spread, the cuts should be made to outside buds on the lateral branches.

During the first five or six years after transplanting, it is generally advisable to prune the trees as little as possible. Excessive pruning at this period tends to make the trees smaller and to keep them in a vegetative condition as well as to retard fruit production. If heavy pruning is necessary, however, to procure the desired shape or needed scaffold branches, it is much better to do such heavy pruning while the trees are young rather than to wait until they come into bearing and then prune heavily.

When trees become six years of age, if properly pruned, they will not require further pruning for form. The pruning from this time on should consist of thinning out the thick parts in the top and cutting back rangy branches.

There has been much discussion as to the best time to prune and some one has said that the best time is when your knife is sharp.

Setting Fruit Trees in the Autumn or Spring

It makes but little difference whether peach and other trees are set out in the fall or spring, provided the ground is not too dry in the fall, the trees are not dug in the fall until the wood is mature as shown by the dropping of the leaves; and provided further that if set in the spring the trees have not been wintered in a frost-proof cellar.

If the ground is extremely dry in the fall and during the winter, the trees may not get sufficient moisture during the winter. Sometimes the nurserymen will strip off the leaves of the trees before the wood is mature and they will not endure the winter so well when transplanted.

Most kinds of hardy trees and shrubs need to go through some cold weather while dormant to be able to grow well in the spring, and when trees which have been kept in frost-proof cellars over winter they do not grow well when set out in the spring. With trees which have been wintered outdoors it is usually more desirable to do the transplanting in the spring.

Spray Peaches Early to Control Many Diseases

Spraying with lime-sulphur to control peach leaf curl must be done early before the buds begin to swell. The need of spraying while the trees are in a dormant condition is emphasized, for, as the buds swell, the bud scales separate slightly, allowing the spores of the fungus to enter and infect the young leaves, after which no form of spray will prevent the development of leaf curl.

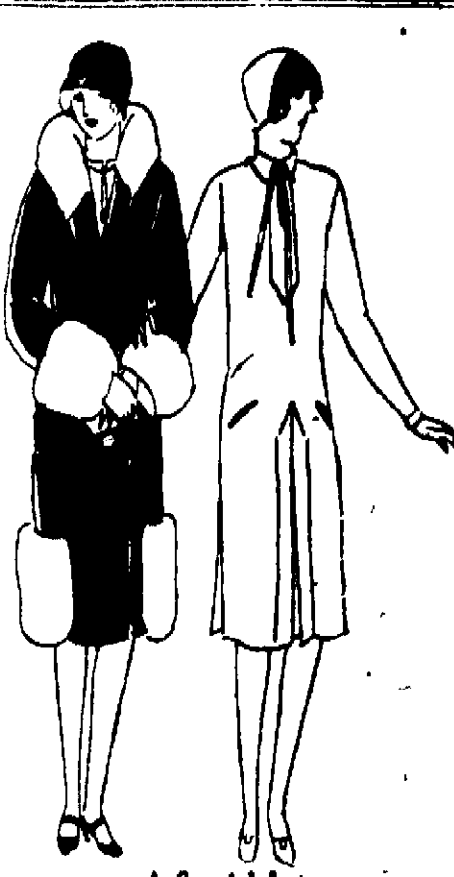

Even in parts of the state where the fruit buds have been killed it will pay to spray for leaf curl as the trees need a vigorous growth of foliage in the early season to develop strong fruit buds for the next season's crop. This dormant spray, it was stated, is also employed to destroy scale and may be applied either in the fall or early spring.

Set Fruit Trees Firmly

Often young trees tend out in the spring and then make no more growth the first year. A tree needs to be set as firmly as a post, but the soil must not be too hard when it is done. The best way to set a tree is to dig a hole about 18 inches deep and 12 inches wide, and to set the tree in it so that the top of the tree is level with the surface of the ground. Then to fill the hole with soil and to tamp it down with the foot. If the soil is too hard, to fill the hole with soil and to tamp it down with the foot. If the soil is too hard, to fill the hole with soil and to tamp it down with the foot.

Newburgh Man Crushed to Death

John K. Sutton, While Directing Movement of Motor Truck, Is Pinned Against Wall and Life Instantly Crushed Out.

John K. Sutton, 60 years old, was instantly killed Thursday at the Newburgh Bleachery on Lake street, Newburgh, when he was crushed between an auto truck and a brick wall of the plant. The truck was owned by the Public Service Corporation and was being driven by Anthony Pallozza who was in the act of delivering a truck load of goods.

It is said that there was an understanding between Pallozza and Sutton whereby the latter was to call out when conditions were right for the truck to back and was to shout again when the truck had gone far enough. He did call out for the backing down, but did not, as far as Pallozza knows, shout again. The truck was being moved cautiously.

When the truck was moved, Sutton fell to the ground before assistance could reach him. Dr. Townsend was summoned at once but said life was extinct, and in all probability all the interior organs of the body had been crushed.

Mr. Sutton lived at 408 Broadway, Newburgh, and was a former resident of Marlborough. He was a member of Advance Lodge, I. O. O. F. of Marlborough. He was twice married and he survived by his second wife, also by children of both marriages, a son by the last marriage being Elmer, 9 years old; by the first marriage, Mrs. Bertha Free of Poughkeepsie and Charles of Newburgh.

"Poultry Trust" Is Being Probed

Washington, Jan. 15.—The department of justice is investigating the "poultry trust." It was revealed during the senate's aluminum trust investigation today by John L. Lott, special assistant to the attorney general.

Beyond asserting that he "did not think any one knew the poultry combine was being examined," Lott gave no details.

Senator Thomas J. Walsh, Democrat of Montana, sought to bring out that J. E. Dunn, the department investigator, who conducted the aluminum inquiry was not competent, but Lott insisted Dunn was "one of the best men in the department."

ELENVILLE BANK

At the annual meeting of stockholders of the Home National Bank of Ellenville on Tuesday, the officers and directors were re-elected as follows:

Directors: Walter A. Cox, James R. Smith, James C. O'Brien, Raymond G. Cox, William C. Rose, Elias A. Van Wageningen, Frederick W. Cox, Richard T. Childs, George F. Andrews.
President, George F. Andrews; vice-president, James R. Smith; cashier, Francis J. Andrews.
The regular semi-annual dividend of 12 per cent was declared.

Formal Probe of Mine Disaster

Last Twelve Bodies of Ninety-one Dead Miners Being Brought to the Surface—Nine Will Have to be Abandoned.

Wilburton, Okla., Jan. 15.—Wilburton and the surrounding coal towns of the Oklahoma coal fields were burying their dead today while state officials prepared for the formal investigation into the cause of the death of 91 miners in the Dorman-McConnell mine No. 21, wrecked Tuesday by an explosion. The last 12 bodies of the dead had been located and were being brought to the surface this morning. Ed Berlin, state mine inspector, said this morning that his inquiry would be directed at stories that the mine was being worked by a small group of men who were not supposed to be in the mine. He believed that the explosion was due entirely to carelessness. A number of witnesses in the mine today in the case against the mine.

Senator Lacey Will Not Testify

In Trial of Men at Buffalo for Conspiracy to Dynamite Tracks—Niagara Falls Train Unless Conspiracy Indictment is Quashed.

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 15.—Although government officials announced today to dynamite the tracks of the Buffalo High Speed Train in August 1922, William B. Mahoney, counsel for Lacey, said last night that he would allow Lacey to testify at all times the government quashes the conspiracy indictment against him.

Only ten of the twenty-five men are being tried at present. Being Buffalo men or residents nearby towns. William B. Mahoney, president of the National Association of Street Car Drivers, is among the men now being tried. In his outline of the government case, Judge Rogers, said that William B. Mahoney and William B. Mahoney, counsel for Lacey, said last night that he would allow Lacey to testify at all times the government quashes the conspiracy indictment against him.

USE OF DIMMER IS NOT FAVORED

Motor Code to Provide 200-
Foot Visibility Is Urged
by Bureau.

Amendments to motor-vehicle laws in states which have not already revised their codes, to regulate night driving headlights so that at all times the motorist is able to see clearly 200 feet ahead instead of forcing the use of dimmers, characterized as dangerous, is urged by the federal bureau of standards of the Department of Commerce. Illinois, Ohio, Indiana and Michigan fall into the group of states that compel dimmed lights by passing motorists on highways, a practice which the bureau scientists condemn as dangerous, not alone to the drivers but to pedestrians as well.

Spotlight Is Favored.

The spotlight, exorcised in and around Chicago, is recommended, with proper study of its use. Most of the eastern states, as well as states west of Illinois, including Wisconsin, have adopted this apparently revolutionary headlight recommendation in the District of Columbia where it has been in effect since May 3, night motor accidents have been materially reduced. Prior to May 3 57 per cent of the total accidents occurred between dusk and dawn. Since adoption of the "ample driving light" standard, with directed beams instead of dimmed lamps, the number has been reduced to 23 per cent.

Opposes Dimming in Country.

The whole story, according to E. C. Crittenden, chief of the electrical division of the big government experiment station, lies in intelligent use of modern devices. He makes no choice between various makes of motor headlights now on the market, one type of which uses a plane reflector with redirecting lenses, the other employing a special reflector with lenses that spread or bend the light rays downward.

"For country driving," says a part of the bureau's publication on headlights, "dimming the headlights when meeting another car should be discouraged because of the element of danger involved. Under normal driving conditions the driver's eyes are adjusted for good road illumination. When the lights are dimmed, suddenly reducing the road light, a few seconds must elapse before the eyes can readjust themselves to the new conditions. During these few seconds the driver is unable to see clearly and may collide with the oncoming car, run into pedestrians walking along the roadside or get off the road into the ditch. In addition, the lights on the approaching car seem unduly bright because no road illumination beyond them is available to reduce the contrast with the background."

How to Warm Up a Motor During Winter Season

"Serious damage is done to many automobiles during the winter season by drivers who do not know how to warm up the motor," says a bulletin issued by the mechanical first aid department of the Chicago Motor club. When the thermometer starts to drop the oil coagulates, and cannot circulate properly. If the driver attempts to start his engine by cranking the motor, the thin film of oil is likely to be burned off, and burned out bearings may be the result of this common practice.

"When the engine is being cranked, the fan is being driven at a high rate of speed which tends to cool the engine, rather than to heat it. The engine should be run slowly with the spark retarded. A retarded spark tends to heat the engine quickly. Use the choke on the primer to keep the engine from stalling."

But No Persecution

Several Reasons Why It Is Expensive to Speed

The driver who persists in operating his motor car at high speed may elude constables and police, says a writer in the Farm and Fireside, but he cannot escape from the penalties which natural mechanical laws levy upon his car. Here are ten reasons why it is expensive, dangerous and inconsiderate of others to speed.

Tires last about twice as long on a car that is driven at 15 miles an hour as upon cars driven at 30 miles an hour. Speeding generates heat, which is an enemy to rubber.

Driving a car around a sharp corner at 25 miles an hour does more damage to the tires than 200 miles of straight road work. Excessive side pressure on tires may pinch the tubes, and it always strains the side walls of the casings.

High speeds are likely to cause skidding and breakage of springs and steering gear, any of which are dangerous when speeding.

In proportion to the mileage obtained, high speeds require more gasoline and oil than a moderate rate of traveling.

Driving a car at excessive speed, especially over rough roads, subjects the bearings to enormous strains.

High speed may cause crystallization of rapidly moving metal parts that are subject to strain, and these may break at any time without warning.

High speeds interfere with the accuracy of steering, as is shown by the number of reckless drivers who have gone over banks and into ditches, especially on curves.

It is a strain on the eyes and the nerves of the driver and also of the other passengers in the car.

Finally, it is a menace to the pleasure and safety of others who use the road.

The majority of modern motor cars develop their maximum efficiency with lowest expense at speeds ranging from 15 to 25 miles an hour, depending on the make of car and conditions of the road.

Shutters on Radiators Kept Closed Too Long

The most important precaution to take in operating a motor car during the winter is to avoid loss of fuel and injury to the engine through the improper co-ordination between the radiator shutter and the radiator heat indicator.

Many drivers keep their shutters closed too long in winter driving because they neglect to observe the reading of the heat indicator on the radiator cap. This lack of co-ordination causes overheating of the engine, as easily possible in the winter as in the summer months, with its consequent wastage of fuel and loss of fuel and loss of power.

On the other hand, if too little of the radiator is covered, the engine will be too cool and there will be resultant poor carbonization, gasoline waste, crankcase dilution and motor carbonizing.

Steaming, which often indicates trouble in summer, cannot be detected easily in winter, as the steam condenses as soon as it comes in contact with the cold air and therefore the readings of the heat indicator must be relied upon.

Headlight Glasses Must Be Kept in Right Place

Some of the light diffusers or devices designed to reduce the rays of light, are designed to be effective only when in a certain fixed position. Vibration may so loosen the glass in the rim that the glass will be permitted to creep around in which case the whole scheme fails. Not all headlights have means for anchoring the glass permanently, so it is a matter for the owner's attention to see that the glasses are properly fastened in place. If screws are used it might do to insert a block under each screw.

Spinach appears to have been introduced into Europe through Spain by the Moors—Spaniards. The first notice of its use as an edible vegetable occurs in 1551 in a list of vegetables used by monks on fast days.

Morgan Firm Made Small Profit

Washington, Jan. 15.—J. P. Morgan and Company, who floated the $100,000,000 Italian loan which followed the funding of the Italian debt to the United States, realize a profit of "less than one-fourth of one percent" (or $250,000) in the transaction, according to a letter from Thomas W. Lamont, one of the Morgan partners, read on the floor of the house this afternoon during debate on ratification of the Italian debt agreement.

Lamont's letter was designed to counteract charges that Morgans had made "millions in the Italian loan."

Morgans bought the bonds from the Italian government at 90. Lamont declared, and sold them to the public at 94½, the difference being largely eaten up in expenses of flotation.

TWO BOYS ON SLED RAN INTO PARKED AUTOMOBILE.

Henry Van Gaasbeck of No. 43 Cedar street, driver of one of Gregory & Company's auto trucks, reported to the police Thursday afternoon that while his truck was parked in front of No. 51 Ravine street two boys on a sled coasting down the hill ran into the forward end of the truck. One of the boys, Leroy Hamilton of 14 Spruce street, received a cut on the top of the left ear about an inch in length. Mr. Van Gaasbeck took the injured lad to his home. Dr. O'Leary was called and dressed the wound.

SAYS GOVERNMENT MUST HELP RUBBER ENTERPRISE

Washington, Jan. 15.—If the American public is to be freed from the British rubber monopoly, the federal government must assist private enterprise to establish and maintain plantations for rubber production, Harvey S. Firestone, the Akron tire manufacturer, today told the house interstate commerce committee, investigating foreign monopolies.

Firestone opposed direct government subsidy, but said that the government should encourage private rubber investments.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Jan. 15.—Bullish traders opened up the floodgates of selling orders in the stock market today, and prices of most of the speculative industrial and motor stocks were driven down to the low levels of the week. The downward trend embraced every important development of the market, with the possible exception of the southwestern rails.

Hudson Motors, Chrysler, General Motors, Willys Overland and other automotive companies' stocks dropped backward 2 to 3 points. American Can was pushed down to 281 for a new low of 4 points, and a shrinkage of 16 points from its recent high. United States Steel sold down to 132, the lowest price since the turn of the year.

Independent Oil and Gas, the leading "Durant" oil stock, declined 3 points to 27, paying the way for a general reaction in the independent oil stocks.

Rock Island's advance to above 60 featured the transportation stocks. The Van Sweringen rails were inclined to be reactionary, and other of the buoyant leaders of the last few weeks were also in retreat under the lash of the victorious bears.

When the World Began
St. Oliver Lodge says time began with the formation of nebulae 300,000,000,000 years ago. We think to dispute such an ancient authority, but we were always under the impression it was 100,000,000,000 years ago.

SOCIETY NOTES

Engagement Announced.
Mr. and Mrs. John E. Nichols of 127 Emerson street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Treasa Mae, to Norman J. Swibold, formerly of Peoria, Ill.

Announcement.
Mrs. Elizabeth Reilly of Astoria, Long Island, announces the engagement of her daughter, Rozella Leonard, to Frank Morgenweck, Jr., of College Point, Long Island.

Entertained at 500.
Dr. and Mrs. C. F. Sherman of Stone Ridge entertained a number of friends at 500 on Tuesday evening. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Irving Cornish, Mr. and Mrs. DeForest Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Barley, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Sahler, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davis, Miss Vivian Bishop, Mrs. Etta Osterhout, Merritt Crispell, Frank Bishop and Harry Cornish. At mid-night dainty refreshments were served. A nice time was enjoyed by all.

Luncheon and Variety Shower.
Mrs. H. A. Denon of Poughkeepsie was hostess at a luncheon and variety shower Wednesday, January 13, in honor of Miss Amy Smith of Esopus, whose engagement to Mrs. Denon's brother, J. Hubert Cole of Clintondale, was recently announced. The table decorations were very attractive, the centerpiece being a miniature bride and groom, surrounded by old-fashioned Dutch bouquets for the guests and for Miss Smith, a miniature bride's bouquet. These were attached to the place cards by colored ribbons to correspond with the bouquets. Miss Smith was the recipient of many beautiful gifts, including china, silver, linens, etc. After the luncheon the guests attended the matinee at the Bardavous Theatre. Those present were Mrs. Alex Smith, Mrs. W. J. McLean of Esopus, Mrs. Calvin Cole of Clintondale, Mrs. Fred Monroe, Miss Dorothy Jacoby, Mrs. J. Jacoby, Miss Lavina Foote of Poughkeepsie, the hostess and guests of honor, Mrs. P. M. Mott and Mrs. John Beaver, Jr., who were invited, were unable to attend.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.
Godfrey A. Roberts, for many years a well known Ellenville resident, died at the Firemen's Home in Hudson on January 7, aged 67 years.

Mary Agnes Mahoney, daughter of Dennis and Mary Mahoney and wife of Peter Forgey, died Wednesday at her home in Hickory Bush, town of Rosendale. Funeral from the residence Saturday morning at 9 o'clock, and 10 o'clock at St. Peter's Church, Rosendale, with a requiem Mass for the repose of her soul. Interment in the family plot in St. Peter's cemetery, Rosendale.

Mrs. Ferol Burger, wife of Harry Krum, died at the home of her sister at Olive Bridge on Thursday afternoon. The remains were brought to this city and will remain at the undertaking parlors of James V. Halloran, 44 Broadway, until Saturday noon, when they will be taken to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jervis Burger, at Krumville. The funeral will be held on Sunday at 1 p. m. from the Krumville Reformed Church. Besides her husband and parents she is survived by six sisters, Mrs. Joseph Reilly of Rhinebeck; Mrs. Ezra Silkworth, Florence, Hazel, Elthea and Mildred, and four brothers, Joseph, George, Jess and Clarence Burger.

Charles H. Roberts died Thursday in this city. Besides his wife he is survived by one daughter, Mrs. W. H. Boeck of Chicago, and a granddaughter, Mrs. L. A. Andrews of Hammond, Indiana, and two sisters, Mrs. Charles Nesbitt and Mrs. Porter Sherman, both of Fort Edward, N. Y. Before his retirement a number of years ago Mr. Roberts was foreman carpenter, employed by the West Shore Railroad. Fraternally he was a member of Rondout Lodge, No. 343, F. & A. M., and of Kingston Chapter, O. E. S. The funeral will be privately held on Monday. Interment in Montrose cemetery. Friends wishing to view the remains may do so on Sunday evening between 7 and 9 o'clock at the late residence, 38 Pine Grove avenue.

George E. Johnston, 72 years old, well known resident of New Paltz, died at his winter home in Fort Lauderdale, Florida, at one o'clock Thursday morning. Mr. Johnston retired from business in New Paltz, on October 7, 1924. He started a drug business in that village in 1880, with which he was associated until 1907. At that time he opened a garage which he conducted until retirement. Mr. Johnston was a director of the Huguenot National Bank of New Paltz, president of the Lewis Brick Company, and had been a member of Adonia Lodge of Masons of Highland for more than 50 years. Last winter Mr. and Mrs. Johnston celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary at Fort Lauderdale, Florida. Surviving him are his wife, Isabel Ackert Johnston, four children, Stephen L. Johnston, Charles A. Johnston, Mrs. D. V. Z. Beart and Mrs. Daniel G. Lawrence, and five grandchildren, all of New Paltz. No details of funeral or burial services had been received by relatives at New Paltz with the exception of the fact that the Masonic Lodge at Fort Lauderdale would hold its service.

Jane K. Rutman, wife of Nathan K. Rutman, died on Saturday evening, January 9, at her home, 122 Elmwood street, after a short illness. She was born February 12, 1865, in Flatbush, and at the age of 17 joined the old Flatbush Reformed Church of which she was a consistent and helpful member until she and her husband moved to Kingston more than twenty years ago. She was united with the Presbyterian Church which she was always ready to help in all its activities. She married February 21, 1886, Nathan K. Rutman, and three children were born to them, the sons, Lawrence, who lives in Rome, N. Y., and Ralph, at home with his father, and a daughter, Katharine, who died February 1, 1925. The death of this daughter was a severe blow to her mother, from which she never fully recovered. The deceased was a quiet and unassuming woman and her death was a sad loss to her family and to the church. Her husband, Mr. Rutman, was a deeply attached and who highly esteemed her for her sterling worth and kindness of heart, and her gentle and cheerful disposition.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. on Monday, January 12, at the home of the deceased, 122 Elmwood street. Burial will be in the cemetery at 11 a. m. on Tuesday, January 13.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. on Monday, January 12, at the home of the deceased, 122 Elmwood street. Burial will be in the cemetery at 11 a. m. on Tuesday, January 13.

EXPLORERS FIND VIKING FORTRESS

Ruins of Historic Buildings Uncovered in Sweden.

A powerful Viking fortress, the headquarters of a northern chieftain of at least thirteen hundred years ago, was uncovered and identified near the city of Norrköping, Sweden, recently by two Swedish archaeologists, Dr. Arthur Norden and Col. N. D. Edlund. Since the name of the place, Ringstad, is identical with one mentioned in the Icelandic Edda, or collection of historic legends, as the estate of the heroic Hjalde Hunding-bane, this may have been the seat of one of the mightiest of Vikings. The location at the head of the Bravalla bay is of obvious strategic importance, and remains of primitive fortifications, or palisades, have been traced in several directions.

What was first unearthed was the stone foundations of an ancient dwelling with several adjuncts, characteristic of the Viking age. As the structures themselves had been built of wood hardly anything but charcoal remained of them, but on the site of what had formerly been the blacksmith shop, where horses were shod and swords forged, there was found in a good state of preservation a bronze clasp that had evidently been brought to the shop for repairs and had then been lost. An adhering bit of rust indicated that attempts had been made to mend the broken pin with iron. This clasp was easily identified as belonging to the Seventh century A. D., but a spear point found on the site of the women's building dated from the Third or Fourth century, while other objects classified themselves as late as the Fourteenth, so that the place had apparently been occupied as a human dwelling for a thousand years. In the course of time it had either been burned to the ground and had then been forgotten, or the occupants had moved to a stone fortress, Ringstadholm, about three miles farther south.

The stone foundations extend about 150 yards in one direction and 60 in the other. Besides the "women's house" and the blacksmith shop, there are traces of a banquet hall, with benches attached to the long side walls, as described in the sagas, and down by the river banks signs of a slaughter house where barbecues were prepared at Yuletide and when the warriors returned from their raids. Of the wooden spiles used in fortifications, the best-preserved remnants were uncovered by the drainage of the river.

Statuette of Socrates

What is believed to be the first statuette of Socrates made by a contemporary now reposes in a special niche in the British museum, side by side with portraits in stone of Demosthenes and Aristotle. The Socrates model, the only known genuine portrait in existence, was found recently in Alexandria, was smuggled out of Egypt and sold first to a Berlin antiquary and then to a Paris museum. An agent of the British museum learned of its existence, verified its authenticity, bought it and brought it to England. Though one foot has been knocked off, the statuette is in good preservation. It stands about eleven inches high and is in pure Parian marble. Authorities are not in idealized conception, but a real portrait—with the Socratic snub nose, coarse features, and rough beard. The figure wears the himation and the chiton.

Italy Builds Many Ships

Italians are proud of recent reports that show Italy to be the third shipbuilding nation on earth, with nearly 250,000 tons of shipping on the docks last summer. Only Great Britain and Germany had more. Various economic factors make it difficult for Italy to compete, but the government often makes up the difference with a money subsidy. Italian shipping is in a flourishing condition, being similarly aided by subsidies. A government committee appointed for the purpose has recommended the establishment of new lines to West Africa and Capetown and lines to connect Italy with Brazil, Vancouver, Hongkong and Japan, besides the regular service from Trieste to Bombay and Calcutta.

Abyssinians Hold Name of Saint George Holy

St. George seems to be the patron saint of the Abyssinians, for in their country there are a number of churches named for that personage. One of them is carved out of solid rock and is a wonderful piece of work, having the appearance of hewn stone. There are beautiful arches and windows and some exquisite carving in stone. The structure is built in the shape of St. George's cross and the stone roof has a similar cross carved upon it.

The building is very pretentious and of a size designed to hold and accommodate several hundred persons. It has a sacred pool on the premises which is said to have been filled with water from the River Jordan years ago and which has never evaporated. The story is one which is generally accepted by the natives, but incidentally a casual observer will see that the surrounding area is drained into this pool and that is probably what keeps the level constant.—Chicago Journal.

Kingston, and a daughter, Katharine, who died February 1, 1925. The death of this daughter was a severe blow to her mother, from which she never fully recovered. The deceased was a quiet and unassuming woman and her death was a sad loss to her family and to the church. Her husband, Mr. Rutman, was a deeply attached and who highly esteemed her for her sterling worth and kindness of heart, and her gentle and cheerful disposition.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. on Monday, January 12, at the home of the deceased, 122 Elmwood street. Burial will be in the cemetery at 11 a. m. on Tuesday, January 13.

Additional Gifts To Legion Fund

Kingston Post, No. 159, American Legion, acknowledges with thanks the receipt of three additional gifts to the American Legion Memorial Building fund as follows:

Philip Goldrick & Sons, $150.
Lori E. DuMont, 74 Liberty street, $5.
Kingston Savings Bank, 1 clock for meeting room.

During the building campaign held last May, brick manufacturers from Malden to Kingston Point contributed the entire brick for the Memorial Building, valued at about $1,000; the Schoonmaker-Connors Co. donated the use of a large barge for about ten days to pick the brick up at the different yards, the Cornell Steamboat Co. towed the barge free of charge, and Vogel's Trucking Co. trucked the brick from the barge to the building at cost. These donations will be itemized in the history of the building soon to be prepared. In connection with these generous contributions, the following letter, just received by the American Legion, will be of interest:

Mr. Eugene B. Carey, Building Committee, American Legion, Kingston, N. Y.

Dear Sir: In the spring of last year, when subscriptions were in order for the Legion Building, we donated 10,000 hard brick as our contribution.

These brick were not collected for the reason that our sheds were empty, when the barge arrived, and it was decided that they would be collected after the building had absorbed those already on the site.

It developed, however, that there was sufficient brick to complete the building, without our contribution. To fulfill our obligation to this most worthy cause, we are enclosing check for $150 which represents the market value of the brick.

Very truly yours,
PHILIP GOLDRICK & SONS,
By M. L. GOLDRICK.

No Piano Donated.
No one has as yet offered a piano for use in the building. Unless a new or used instrument is contributed soon, the building committee will have to purchase one, as a piano will be needed in the dedication exercises to be held on Friday, January 22.

Pledges Still Unpaid.
While a few of the pledges of the $3,000 still unpaid have been taken care of as a result of the appeal made a few days ago, a major portion of them are not yet paid. The building is finished and furnished, and the bills must be paid. Every person who pledged to this patriotic project is asked to remit the amount of their pledge at once to M. F. Netter, treasurer, 22 Ferry street. Kingston surely must not have a mortgage on the memorial building to its war dead. The building cannot be paid for unless those who pledged money pay that money.

If any citizens have not yet contributed to the American Legion Building Fund, it is not yet too late. Send your check to E. B. Carey, Commander, 53 John street. Good use can be made of your contribution.

WORLD COURT WILL HAVE RIGHT OF WAY

Washington, Jan. 15.—Alarmed over the prospects of the world court being displaced on the senate calendar, administration leaders this afternoon abandoned their previous policy of going ahead with appropriation bills and announced nothing would be allowed to interfere with consideration of the court.

The result was that the irreconcilable group was put on the defensive and forced to hold the floor with continuous debate.

With only a handful of senators in the chamber, Fernald, Republican of Maine, and Bleasdale Democrat of South Carolina, made long speeches against American adherence.

Presaging his speech with the announcement that for the first time in his political career he was "forced to abandon the leadership of his party," Senator Fernald declared he would vote against American adherence to the world court.

LEGION ADVOCATES U. S. ENTRANCE INTO WORLD COURT

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 15.—Immediate entrance of the United States into the world court was advocated in a resolution adopted by the National Executive Committee of the American Legion here today.

The committee ordered copies of the resolution sent to President Coolidge, Vice-President Davis, presiding senate officer, and Speaker Longworth of the house in Washington.

STUDENTS STRIKE

Washington, Jan. 15.—More than a thousand at Armstrong High School went on strike today. They walked out of class rooms in protest against the proposed demolition of Arthur C. Newman, the principal, who is extremely popular.

NEW YORK WAS SAVED FROM A FLOWER TRUST

Washington, Jan. 15.—The department of justice has saved New York from "the flower trust." It announced this afternoon.

A suit begun against a combination of producers and wholesalers under the anti-trust laws has been settled out of court, the department announced, the defendants consenting to a decree which prohibits the carrying out of agreements curtailing the distribution of outdoor flowers, and restores the $10,000,000 flower market to a competitive basis.

216 Die of Smallpox.

Vladivostok, Jan. 15.—A total of 216 persons today were reported to have died here as a result of an epidemic of smallpox which broke out in the city earlier in the week. Almost 400 were said to be suffering from the disease.

CAPTAIN STEELE URGES RIGID AIRSHIPS

Washington, Jan. 15.—The break among the high command in the navy over rigid airship development was further accentuated today in testimony by Captain George W. Steele, commander of the Lakehurst naval air station, before the house naval affairs committee.

Steele, who is commander of the Los Angeles, sister ship of the Shenandoah, declared that rigid airships have greater military value than submarines.

Big Collar Feature of Popular Muskrat Coat

Muskrat makes a well liked and useful wrap. This design is exceptionally well modeled in straight, smart lines, and has a large collar.

Ensembles Are Popular for Evening Occasions

Few models reveal more definitely the prevailing tendency toward formal fashions than those created for evening occasions. In viewing modes designed for evening it quickly becomes apparent that nothing equals in smartness, in charm, or in fashion importance the ensemble developed either in similar materials or in contrasting fabrics.

Materials are sumptuous both in texture and coloring and trimmings of fur give an effect of great intricacy which is achieved by skillful cutting and working of the skins.

The reversible wrap for evening is said to have received the approval of Paris, and one finds this mode adopted by the smartest American women. It has many interpretations. Sometimes lame is used for the outer side, with velvet for the lining, while quite as often fur lines a wrap fashioned of rich metal brocade or supple velvet in a glowing shade.

The combination of velvet with metallic brocade is most successful and appears again and again in the models shown by the best houses.

New Evening Wraps

The reversible wrap is among the smartest of the new models and nothing could exceed in beauty a model fashioned of silver and black metallic brocade combined with black velvet and lined throughout with ermine.

Bracelets Fashionable

Many new types of bracelets have been introduced since the craze for them has become so general. One finds them in glass, crystal, gold or silver wire, and in fancy beads as well as in jewels.

Honors French Botanist

The magnolia is so named in honor of Pierre Magnole, a French botanist of the early Seventeenth century. The meaning of the word magnolia is high-souled.

Roach Is Latest in Hairdressing

Paris Women Revive Style Formerly Worn by Great-Grandfathers.

There is a new freak hairdressing style in Paris, but it has nothing whatever to do with long hair, states a Paris fashion correspondent in the New York Times. My lady, having grown tired of imitating the sleek head of the boy of today, has gone back some seventy years and started imitating the "roach" in which her father was photographed as a baby and her grandfather as a handsome young man!

The new "roach" is made carefully exactly in the middle of the shingled head, and is kept in position by a barbed wire entanglement of invisible hairpins. Some of the roaches are nothing but bundles of frizzled-up hair ends. But some are the orthodox "sausage" curl, turned inward, and carefully laid from the middle of the forehead to the back of the head. Others are nothing but pushed-up puffs kept in place by a hidden side comb.

However it is made, the "roach" explains the tendency of the season's hats to higher crowns. There must be room for the excrescence without crushing, for the Parisienne, who hardly ever goes out without a hat on, has a great fondness for snatching it off at odd moments, and she must be sure that the effect is what she intends it to be. Besides, nowadays women are kept to the hairdresser to have their locks put in order, as they have not done for many long years, and the expert's touches are left undisturbed by even a brush and comb for as long as can be.

Ever since the Paris visit of the popular maharajah of Rntiela, that fabulously rich Indian prince who seemed to have stepped straight out of the Arabian Nights, there has been a great increase in the number of twisted turbans worn in the evening, especially to the theatre. These come in the pale mauves, and blues affected by his highness, and boast an oprey in the middle, as in the far-off days of the Dollar Princess, fastened above the forehead with a glistening jewel, often real.

Hair bands of gilded leather help to fill the need for ornamentation in headdress style. Tiny little bunches of metalized fruits and winter berries, all in their natural colors, decorate them. An impression of wood nymphs and sprites is conveyed, and hence youth.

Rich Evening Gown of Lace and Rhinestones

This charming evening gown is made entirely of American-made silver lace and rhinestones. The molded bodice and flare skirt are characteristic of the latest mode.

Studded Metal Girdles

Among Newest Novelties

Among the new importations are innumerable girdles of metal studded with stones and jet. This form of belt drops below the waistline in front, where it is fastened with an ornamental clasp and long ends of fringe. Wide ribbons in the splendid silk and metallic brocades, in gay plaids and Roman stripes, are used. Beautiful cash girdles of soft material are worn with the long tunic blouses. On their ends is applied a decorative touch of velvet or satin embroidered on with silk floss or metal thread. Cubist, Greek and fancy designs are used. Many of these girdles are handpainted in color.

Green Is Popular

Green stands out as one of the dominant colors of the season and is keeping with the tendency to expand all tones of this particular shade in a variety of silks, crepes, satins, edged with feather trimming, the same shade, and ornamented with two large leaves, one on the shoulder and one at the hip.

The period of time required for the earth to make one absolute revolution around the sun is called a sidereal year. It consists of 365 days, 5 hours, 48 minutes and 46 seconds. This period never varies.

Too Good to Be True

Later—"I'm afraid to ask for her hand in marriage. She knows how to cook; she can mend socks and she doesn't care a thing for the money. She's abnormal; there must be something wrong with her."—Le Mire, Paris.

Conning Elected Democratic Head

Later the governor recommended that the commission headed by Charles E. Hughes, which is planning a reorganization of the state government, be continued to make a study of consolidating many of the smaller counties.

"Some of the men who are doing the most talking about tax reduction will vote against consolidation of counties because it would mean a loss of political patronage," the governor declared.

The governor denied the claim made by Republicans that the direct state tax should be abolished to replace the income tax. He said that of the $22,000,000 direct state tax last year, used to pay interest on the state debt, would be $12,000,000.

Aerial Supports

The Loomis Radio college says that, while it is generally believed that iron is the best material for aerial supports, some of the energy, iron supports are frequently employed for this purpose on account of their mechanical advantages. Observe the latticed steel towers used by all the large broadcasting stations, where receivers are also installed as required by law. The aerial should be well insulated from the iron pole and swung a few feet away from it by a stout rope. The other aerials should run as nearly as possible at right angles to each other. If they are one above the other in the same direction they will rob each other quite noticeably.

Only 4 May Row At Poughkeepsie

New York, Jan. 15.—Of the seven invitations sent out last night by the board of stewards of the Poughkeepsie regatta, it was estimated today that not more than four would be accepted. These acceptances were expected from the Naval Academy, the 1925 champions, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Wisconsin, and either Washington or California. Princeton and Stanford also were invited but are not expected to accept, Princeton being averse to post-season rowing and the four mile distance and Stanford having become more or less non-active on the water.

FIRE PREVENTION.
Question—When a frame building burns down, what is left? Answer—The chimney alone, because it is built of brick. Chimneys are built of brick because they are fireproof. Why not construct the whole building of brick, that is Real Fire Prevention. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. When you build, use brick exclusively. There may be a slight increase in first cost, but always a large saving in maintenance. Building brick and sand. TERRY BROTHERS CO. Tel. 1674.

Humid Weather Theory Explodes

Official National League Average Doesn't Support Theory That Humid Weather Stops St. Louis From Pennant.

New York, Jan. 15.—For lack of something better to do, one of the boys in the back room hails right off, every once in so often, and calls attention to the theory that no St. Louis ball club can win a pennant unless it is at least 25 per cent better than its field. The humid atmosphere of the inland city, where the Cards and Browns each must play twenty-seven games a season, is popularly supposed to be the answer.

It is an excellent idea but, unfortunately, it is not supported by the official National League averages for 1925, recently released. These show that the Cardinals, far from curling up under the punishing sun in St. Louis, made a remarkable showing on the home grounds and actually tossed off their chances of running one-two behind the Pirates because they couldn't win on the road.

Including a very flatfooted getaway from the Mickey regime, the Cards won forty-eight games and lost twenty-eight in St. Louis for a percentage of .632, which was exceeded only by the home record of the Pirates, .675.

Away from home, the Cardinal record was almost scandalous. They won only twenty-nine and lost forty-eight for a percentage of .377, finishing ahead of only one club, the Dodgers who pleaded guilty to a mark of .368.

ST. MARY'S BOY SCOUTS DEFEATED J. K. O. M.

In the preliminary game at St. Mary's Hall Wednesday night, the St. Mary's Boy Scouts came out on top of a hard game with J. K. O. M. team. The Scouts put up a hard fight and came from behind in the last few minutes to win by a 12 to 10 score. The score:

FIRST LAP IN NEW ENGLAND SLED DOG RACE

Poland Springs, Me., Jan. 15.—All eyes were centered on pretty Miss Clara F. Enebuske of Cambridge, Mass., today when five teams of seven dogs each started on the first lap of 18½ miles of the forty mile race of the New England Sled Dog Club.

Today's lap was over the snow-banked roads from this place to Mechanics Falls, Minn., East Poland, and back to the Springs. The race was in preparation for the international meet at Quebec in February.

Tex Rickard's Rating of Boxers

New York, Jan. 15.—Much speculation today followed the publishing of Tex Rickard's rating of boxers, which placed two champions, Rocky Kansas and Charley Phil Rosenberg, below some of the contenders in their respective divisions. Kansas, who recently fell heir to the lightweight title, was ranked below Sammy Mandell and Sid Terris, who were placed "one-two" in the order named.

In the bantamweight class, Rickard named Chick Suggs, New England negro, at the top, followed by Bushy Graham, Ulica, N. Y., and Bud Taylor, Terre Haute, Roschberg was ranked fourth.

Dempsey was placed at the head of the heavyweight division, followed by Harry Wills, Gene Tunney, Bud Gorman and Jack Renaut. Paul Berlenbach headed the light heavyweights with Jack Delaney second but many took issue with the ranking of Mike McTigue in third place ahead of Young Stribling.

Harry Greb, Dave Sniade, Tiger Flowers and Leo Lomaki were the top four among the middleweights as were Mickey Walker, Tommy Miligan, Jack Zivic and Joe Dundee among the welterweights. Ted Morgan, now junior lightweight champion topped that division.

The featherweights were topped by Louis Kid Kaplan, champion, with Babe Herman, Jimmy McLarnin and Bobby Garcia trailing along with the flyweight rating placed Fidel Labarba, champion, Frankie Genaro, Newsboy Brown and Corporal Izzy Schwartz in the order named.

Fifteen boxers were rated in each class.

Big Reception For Helen Wills

Paris, Jan. 15.—Helen Wills, America's leading woman tennis player, arrived here today and was accorded a reception greater than many offered to European royalty.

There was no doubt that France is interested in this American girl who comes, perhaps, to wrest the world's tennis honors from Suzanne Lenglen. No less than seventy-five French photographers demanded pictures as soon as Miss Wills stepped from the boat-train.

"I am not feeling quite like myself," Miss Wills confessed, and she frankly admitted that she suffered rather severely from seasickness on her voyage and hasn't quite recovered.

Miss Wills will not make any undue efforts to meet Suzanne Lenglen, but is rather inclined to let events shape their own course.

"I'll have to get acclimated before I can have any chance with Miss Lenglen," Miss Wills told the International News Service.

"I really can't say what my tennis plans are. We will leave for the Riviera tomorrow night. I have not entered any tournaments thus far and so I don't know exactly when I will play."

First Iron Vessels

It is not recorded who first discovered that an iron vessel would float as easily as a wooden one. It is recorded that an iron boat was built and launched on the River Foss, in York, England, as early as 1777, but the date of the invention of iron as a recognized material for ship construction is often given as 1818, when the lighter Vulcan was built on the Monkland canal, near Glasgow, Scotland.

California's Capital

Before being admitted as a state, the capital of California was Monterey, alternately with Los Angeles. Monterey was the capital from 1840 to 1846. Los Angeles from 1846 to 1847. Monterey was again the capital from 1847 until California was admitted as a new state. In 1849 Sacramento offered $100,000 for the honor of becoming the state capital, and became officially recognized as such in 1854.

ROBINS BANK ON VETERAN PLAYERS

Age and Experience Desired by Brooklyn.

If age and experience can win a pennant in the major leagues your Uncle Wilbert, of Brooklyn, should walk in. President-Manager Robinson believes in years and plenty of them. When he calls the roll at the Florida training camp next spring he can produce seven pitchers who will average over thirty-one years of age. All are thirty or over. His regular outfield will average about thirty-one and his infield of five players over thirty.

Robinson's catchers show a slightly better average than the others, even though led by the well matured DeBerry who will be going on thirty-three when he dons the mask at Clearwater. The average is held down by Hargreaves and O'Neil, each twenty-seven years of age.

It might be deduced from these figures that most of them have grown gray in the service of the Robins. Not a bit of it. The scouts have instructions to pick 'em ripe, which accounts for the presence of John Hollingsworth, Bob McGraw, George Boehler and Douglas McWeeny, all pitchers. Apparently the ivory hunters couldn't find enough of them so Uncle Wilbert himself made a deal which brought Jess Barnes, thirty-three, and August Felix, thirty, to the ranks.

Boehler, obtained from the Oakland club of the Pacific Coast league, is the most matured of the lot among the "rookies." He will be thirty-two when he gets into action down South. Hollingsworth obtained from Portland is thirty. McGraw bought from Minneapolis is twenty-nine while McWeeny is the youngest of the lot at twenty-eight.

Checking up on those who might be considered regulars, figures show that ancient pitchers purchased make 13 of 20 or over who have been enrolled for next season. The venerable Zach Wheat leads the flock, the veteran fly chaser confessing to thirty-seven. Barnes and Jack Fournier are next in order at thirty-three. Then come Burleigh Grimes, Boehler, "Dizzy" Vance, Milton Stock and Joe Deberry at thirty-two. August Felix, John Mitchell, Hollingsworth, Ernie Osborne and Jim Tierney are the thirty-year-old youngsters.

Brooklyn's experiment with "old heads" will be watched with interest. Should Robble succeed in at least putting a scare into the rest it may result in tacking up the notice on the major league fences telling the world that "no minors are allowed."

Rate Boost by Theaters Angers Admiral Nulton

Rear Admiral L. M. Nulton, superintendent of the United States Naval academy at Annapolis, in a letter to the Brooklyn Eagle stated that profiteering by New York theater managers on the night of the Army-Navy football game, November 28, will eliminate New York from future games, so far as the navy is concerned.

Size and Weight of New Golf Ball Is in Doubt

Agreement between American and English golf officials on the size and weight of a new standard ball, may finally be reached at an international conference next June in England, plans for which are now receiving consideration.

William C. Fownes, Jr., of Pittsburgh is expected to convey American's ideas to the Royal and Ancient club, Britain's ruling body. He has been active in attempting to solve the problem of a new ball for American courses, but thus far England has been unable to accept the recommendation of the Fownes' committee for a bigger, lighter sphere, owing to peculiar atmospheric conditions on courses abroad.

Sporting Squibs

Red Grange, they say, is fond of spinach. All our great stars are temperamental and queer in one way or another.

Time sums are paid by soccer clubs in England for star players. Purse as high as $25,000 are asked for the transfer of stars.

Those who are worrying about the effect of Red Grange's career on college football are worrying prematurely. Wait till the show is over.

Edmond Hearnshaw, the world champion 152 pounder, is a player, is thirty-six years of age. He has been playing the game twenty years and is a great mass expert. He is a southerner.

A professional football rival in the East is planned for another year, to include New York, Rochester, Providence, Buffalo, Brooklyn, Atlantic City, Washington, Newark, Boston, Hartford and Wilkes-Barre.

America's Best At Wimbledon
New York, Jan. 15.—America will send its best available two-man tennis team to Wimbledon this year or it will send none at all—according to the good word passed along to the writer today for what it might be worth by an official of the United States Lawn Tennis Association. He denied reports that Bill Tilden, Billy Johnston and Vincent Richards, the so-called big three, had taken an early run out on the idea.

"They didn't," because they couldn't," was his cryptic comment. "They haven't been invited yet. Invitations cannot be extended until after the association passes either favorably or unfavorably upon the project at its annual meeting next month. It is a 1,000 to 1 shot that the action will be favorable."

As a matter of fundamental fact, considerable pressure is being brought to bear on American tennis to produce its best at Wimbledon this year so that an official world champion in singles may be established to the satisfaction of all concerned.

So impressed is the Tennis Association with the importance of the event that it will select its two representatives only from a preferred list, including Tilden, Johnston, Richards, Dick Williams and Howard Kinsey, named in the order of preference. They really think Tilden will go.

"If, however, we can't get two men from among the first six in the ranking list, we will abandon the entire trip," the writer's informant declared.

The general impression, however, is that Tilden will be in a position to accept the invitation. Johnston, probably, will not be able to go but Richards, from what he told the writer recently, is almost certainly, particularly if Tilden goes in the party.
